

The Queen of England.

The following article published in the London Times has excited much attention in England, and is attributed to the Queen. It is a distinct and direct reply to the articles in the press relative to her Majesty's disappearance from public life, and to the course which she has marked out for herself in future:

"An erroneous idea seems generally to prevail, and has lately found frequent expression in the newspapers, that the Queen is about to resume the place in society which she occupied before her great affliction; that is, that she is about again to hold levees and drawing rooms in person, and to appear as before at court balls, concerts, &c. This idea cannot be too explicitly contradicted.

"The Queen heartily appreciates the desire of her subjects to see her, and whatever she can do to gratify them in this loyal and affectionate wish she will do. Whenever any real object is to be attained by her appearing on public occasions, any national interest to be promoted, or anything to be encouraged which is for the good of her people, her Majesty will not shrink, as she has not shrunk, from any personal sacrifice or exertion, however painful.

"But there are other and higher duties than those of mere representation which are now thrown upon the Queen, alone and unassisted—duties which she cannot neglect without injury to the public service, which weigh increasingly upon her, overwhelming her with work and anxiety.

"The Queen has labored conscientiously to discharge these duties till her health and strength, already shaken by the utter and ever abiding desolation which has taken the place of her former happiness, have been seriously impaired.

"To call upon her to undergo, in addition, the fatigue of those mere State ceremonies which can be equally well performed by other members of her family, is to ask her to run the risk of entirely disabling herself for the discharge of those other duties which cannot be neglected without serious injury to the public interests.

"The Queen will, however, do what she can, in the manner least trying to her health, strength, and spirits, to meet the loyal wishes of her subjects; to afford that support and countenance to society, and to give that encouragement to trade which is desired of her.

"More the Queen cannot do; and more the kindness and good feeling of her people will surely not exact from her."

The Military Committee of the U. S. Senate, has reported a bill increasing the pay of non-commissioned officers and soldiers two dollars a month, but reducing the ration to what it was previous to August 3d, 1861. The increase of pay is the estimated value of the reduction of rations.

The New York World is informed upon what it deems good authority, "that a wide spread organization is now being effected throughout the North to send men and means to the Mexican government to help them against the French. Clubs are said to be in existence for this purpose in all the large cities, and quite a number of men have been recruited—at least such are the statements that reach us."

Secretary Welles is urging upon the Naval committees of the U. S. Congress the necessity of making immediate provision for an additional navy yard on the Atlantic coast.

It is reported that the court-martial in the case of Admiral Wilkes of the U. S. Navy has found him guilty of the charges preferred against him, and that he will be dismissed the service.

NEW AND IMPROVED INVENTION OF ARTIFICIAL CHEOPLASTIC BONE TEETH WITHOUT METAL PLATE OR CLASUS.

DRS. SIGESMOND & HAYWARD, 280 Pennsylvania Avenue, between 12th and 13th streets, Washington, D. C.

CALLS the attention of the public to the following advantages of his improved system:

1. The Teeth of their manufacture will never corrode nor change color by any acids, being three-fourths lighter than any other.

2. No teeth or roots need be extracted, as the artificial ones can be inserted over them.

3. The roots will be made inoffensive and never to ache.

4. No temporary teeth are needed, as permanent ones can be made immediately, thereby preserving the natural expression of the face, which under the old system is frequently disfigured.

5. This work has been fully tested over five years by many of the first chemists and physicians of this country.

Drs. S. & H. have also invented a white undestructive metal filling, with which the most sensitive teeth can be filled without pain, and can build up a perfect sound tooth on any side roots, which will last through lifetime.
