CITY OF MANCHESTER.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST IN THE CITY ACROSS THE JAMES.

The Entertainment at the "Terrace"—She Stole the Time-Piece—Damage to the Corn Crop—Lived in Swansboro.

MANCHESTER BUREAU RICHMOND TIMES, 1121 HULL STREET, BEATTIE BLOCK.

The entertainment and moonlight lawn party given at the "Terrace," on Decatur street, between Tenth and Eleventh, under the auspices of the ladies of the Bainbridge-street Baptist church for the benefit of the Rudd-Memorial Mission church, in Mexico, was highly enjoyed by the large attendance last night. Vocal selections by Miss Ida Robinson, Miss Helen Stockton, Mr. H. T. Cardozo, Mr. B. W. Nunnally, Captain Frank Cunningham and others, added greatly to the pleasure of the evening, and the recitation of Miss Mayme Leahy was an attractive feature of the entertainment. The Manchester Mandolin Band and the Richmond and Danville Railroad Band also took part in the programme. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mary Tinsley, a servant at the Chester Hotel, recently stole several watches and other articles from the guests of the house. Mr. M. W. Thomas, of Richmond, lost his watch a few days ago. He went to the jail Wednesday morning, and the woman admitted the theft and told where she had hidden the time-piece.

Persons in this city from Chesterfield yesterday reported that the storm Wednesday afternoon was very violent there, and did a great deal of damage to the corn crop by blowing it flat on the ground.

The finance committee of the county school board of Chesterfield will hold a meeting at the Courthouse to-day.

The statement made in yesterday's report of the trial of George Wescott to the effect that the Court in admitting the testimony of Charles Bowen stated that the jurors doubtless knew Bowen and would take his testimony for what it was worth, should have been that Judge Ingram admitted the testimony as legal, adding that its weight and sufficiency would rest with the jury. At the time the Judge made the statement the jury were not in the court-room, having been sent out by Judge Ingram. Wescott was acquitted.

The hustings court was in session yesterday engaged in the consideration of chancery matters. The court adjourned for the term.

Samuel Mayo, the young colored man who was killed yesterday at the Tredegar Works by a mass of dirt falling on him while excavating, resided in Swansboro. He lived only a short while after the accident. This is the third Manchester man who has been killed while digging dirt at the Tredegar.

Several propositions have been submitted to the city council relative to the appointment of a city scavenger.

At the last meeting of the city council applications from several parties desiring to do the work were referred to a special committee, and that committee will in a few days meet to consider the subject and to frame a report to the council as to what is the best plan the city could adopt.

Master William Patteson Jones, of Petersburg, is visiting friends in this city.

Dr. T. B. Dorset left yesterday afternoon for Chicago to attend the World's Fair.

Mr. Tom E. Owen is detained at his home, on Thirteenth and Stockton streets, by sickness.

At a regular meeting of the school board, held at the public school building last night, the following members were present: Messrs. O'Brien (chairman), Sims, Weisiger, Robertson, Carr, Fitzgerald, Moore.

The meeting lasted only about fifteen minutes, and nothing but routine matters occupied the attention of the body.

Mr. J. C. Moore went into his store, near the corner of Twelfth and Hull streets, last night, and found a negro woman in the act of rifling his money-drawer. She leaped through the window and escaped.

MEN WHO HAD LUCK.

Stories Circulated in a Group of Devotees of Chance in the Northwest.

"Well, that was luck."

The speaker was one of a group of half a dozen men who were standing on Pacific avenue puffing away at Havanas and talking just to pass time away and to clear their throats for lubricants of a fiery order. The conversation had been about the livery stableman, Martin, of this city, who had fallen heir to $50,000 three years ago and didn't find it out until a few days ago.

"Talk about luck," said one of the group, who was a gambler, "we see plenty of it. Do you know that one day last week a man entered one of our gambling houses with a nickel and won out $400 in three hours. He had gone clean busted on a drunk the night before, and found the nickel in an out-of-the-way corner in his room the next morning.

"That bickie went to the gambling house with the intention of placing his five cent piece on the number five. He got into the room when the roulette ball was whizzing around on its tour of numbers. He rushed to the table and got down his nickel on the five just as the game-runner shouted 'All down.' In a few seconds the ball started on its 'rear end' bouncing and in a few seconds more the man shouted 'Five!' That gave the man with the nickel $1.75 for his five cents. Then he put $1 on No. 17, and that number came up, giving him $35 more. He continued to play with varying luck until in three hours he had won $400. And the next day he was broke again. He borrowed a nickel and tried the game again, but it didn't go."

"I can tell a story of a man who was lucky," said a business man. "In the early days of the gold excitement in California there came into San Diego a man who was ragged and sick almost to death. He was taken in hand and fed and fixed up. Then he told a story of a wonderful find of gold he had made. It was only a few days off, he said, and he would take a party to the place if they would outfit.

"Several men who heard the story of the great gold in the mountains that was theirs to go after got up a party of fifty. The start was made with that man as leader. After a few days' travel it became evident that the man had forgotten the way. They traveled on, trusting to luck, however. Indians were hostile at the time, and they started in to mow the gold hunters. They picked off one after another with their bullets. A score were thus taken off. Then a fever struck the party, and eleven more went the way of death.

"By this time the nineteen survivors were crazy with rage. They had been fourteen days out and were traveling in the most arid country. Food was growing less and less, and death faced everybody. On the afternoon of the fourteenth day the leader, who had caused so much misery, was given three days more to find his gold 'find.' If he was not successful by that time he was to hang.

"Well, the three days had almost passed, and still there was no sign of the find. The last hour was almost up. It seemed that the man must hang. There were only five minutes more, now two minutes, now one minute, now a half minute—then came his luck. Just as the time was up for the hanging that man dropped dead."

"I don't see how he was lucky," put in the gambler who had told the first story.

"Why," said the business man, "he was lucky because if he hadn't died he would have been hanged."

Another gambler told how a few days ago a green Swede, who knew nothing about the game, but determined to try his luck, had won nearly $1,000. He had been an on-looker once or twice, and seen big winnings. He went to the roulette wheel with twenty dollars, and in a few hours he won out $800. It seemed that no matter what number he put chips on—and he played recklessly, as all new players do—it came up every time. That was pure luck. The man played no combinations or "arrangements," because he was as green as grass, and knew nothing about the game.

"I have a friend," spoke up one of the group, who is connected with the city government, "who by the merest luck made a discovery that is netting him millions. His name is Perkins, and a few years ago, back in Minnesota, he made his discovery. He was a traveling man for a grocery firm, and while walking to a train to go from one country town to another one day he whittled a stick.

"He had whittled the stick in a triangle shape. On the train the idea struck him that the shape would be just what was wanted for railroad spikes. The square spikes in vogue were not the right thing because they split the grain of the green ties when driven into them, and when dry the wood shrank away from them. The triangle-shaped spike would not split the grain, and subsequent shrinkage would be done away with. Perkins submitted his discovery to Pullman, and now the spikes are being made by millions at Pullman, Ill., making millions for Perkins and Pullman."

Another gambler here chimed in with the statement that during the past week a gambler from Seattle had won $2,300 at faro at Tacoma rooms in two sittings. Both sittings occupied thirteen hours, and the first sitting resulted in the winning of $1,500, and the second $1,000. During the latter game the man was out nearly the whole $1,300 he had won at sitting No. 1, but he picked up and won big money. "I suppose he's gone back to Seattle with his dough," said the gambler, "as I have not seen him for some days."

"The luckiest winning that has been made in this city for some time was made by the two men who entered the Warwick and, with their pistols, won all that was in sight," said one of the group. "It took only a moment, too, and there was no opposition. Do you know that the men suspected of that job are in town? But there is nothing to prove it against them, so there'll be no arrests."—Tacoma News.

THE CITY OF BANGKOK.

Description of the Venice of Siam Situated on the Banks of the Menam.

Bangkok is only 100 years old, but it has half a million of inhabitants. It has grown very rapidly, and is the largest town between Calcutta and Canton. It is surrounded by walls and canals. The town proper is on the left bank of the Menam, but vast suburbs prolong Bangkok to the right bank.

Canals traverse the city in all directions. It is only within the last few years that streets like those of Europe have been made along the river in the vicinity. Nevertheless, the transit through the city is by water.

From a distance "the Venice of Siam"—which is larger and more elaborate than that of Italy—presents a most picturesque appearance. Vast pyramidal pagodas rise above the waters and the ships and trees, embellished with Mosaics, which glitter like gold in the sun.

Houses of European construction are built on terra firma near the port. The royal palace is one of these, and is a fine edifice in the Italian style.

The native houses are nearly all sculptured and ornamented with pictures and leaves of gold. They line the banks on both sides the Menam. The legations and consulates—off which the French gun-boats lie—are a little below Bang Kolem. Half the population of Bangkok consists of Chinese.
