MANCHESTER MATTERS.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST IN THE CITY ACROSS THE JAMES.

The Site for the Tobacco Warehouse—Marriages in Chesterfield—The Speaking To-night—Personal.

The site which the parties who have in view the establishment of a large tobacco warehouse in Manchester, will be near the Richmond and Danville railroad. The drayage will be the same as in Richmond, and railroad tracks will run into the warehouse. The Richmond tobacco trade looks upon the project with much favor, as such an arrangement will save insurance, and cut down the rate of storage. It is believed that such a warehouse will be a great advantage to Manchester, as well as the Richmond tobacconists who are interested in the scheme.

Mr. James A. Wallen, of Richmond, and Miss Alice Hey, of Chesterfield, were married Tuesday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, in Chesterfield, Rev. Joel Tucker performing the ceremony. After the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Wallen left for the North.

Mr. George Hall, of Petersburg, and Miss Maggie Scammell, were married Tuesday at the residence of the bride's brother-in-law, Dr. George Potts, in Chesterfield county, Rev. John Ridout performed the ceremony. After the marriage the couple left for a bridal tour.

The sociable under the auspices of the West End church, will be held at Patch's Building, on Hull street, this evening.

Eddie Christian (colored) was before the Mayor's Court yesterday morning on a warrant charging him with steling a dress from a negro woman named Carrie Finney.

At the request of the accused the case was continued until Friday.

Christian says the woman gave him the dress to pawn.

Judge B. A. Hancock, of Chesterfield, presided at the Sussex Circuit Court yesterday.

Hon. John Goode will speak to the Democrats in Leader Hall to-night. All the arrangements for Mr. Goode's reception have been completed, and he will doubtless have a very large audience to hear him.

Mrs. M. L. Brown and granddaughter, of Ogden, Utah, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. D. D. Beattie.

Miss Clara H. Wright, of Caroline county, who has been visiting Miss May Moody, of Chesterfield Courthouse, has returned home.

Hon. R. B. Munford, of Richmond, and Hon. W. R. McKenney, of Petersburg, will address the Democrats of Ettrick, in Chesterfield, to-morrow.

The officers and teachers of Meade-Memorial Sunday-school are requested to attend a special meeting to-night at 6:45 o'clock at the residence of Mr. T. W. Wood, near Forest Hill Park.

Mr. William J. Andrews, the engineer who was killed Tuesday morning by an accident on the Lambert's Point division of the Norfolk and Western railroad, was a son of Mr. James E. Andrews, of Petersburg, formerly of Chesterfield county.

Miss Mary Turnbull, of Petersburg, formerly of Manchester, left Tuesday with her brother, Mr. Fred. Turnbull, for Colorado. Mr. Turnbull is in bad health and his physician has advised him to try the climate of Colorado. Mr. Turnbull's wife also accompanied him.

They Carry Away $300 Worth of Goods From Constable Brothers.

Burglars in this city have been doing a deal of lucrative work of late, and stores and private houses have been almost nightly victims of what would appear to be an organized gang where boldness is only exceeded by their hoggishness, for they rarely fail to make a big haul, when once they effect an entrance, and they have been known to devour enterprising housekeepers' dantiest preserves or cakes before leaving the store-room.

It was some time before daybreak yesterday morning when Messrs. Constable Brothers, on Broad street, between Fourth and Fifth, were relieved of about $300 worth of goods, while Messrs. Rothert & Co., near by, escaped only by reason of some staunch iron bars that defied the intruders. A private watchman is employed for the two squares on which these establishments are located, but the narrow, dark alleys behind the stores served as covers for the burglars, who by means of a large box, behind which they concealed themselves, bored a number of holes in the lower panel of the back door of Constable Brothers, and cut out a panel. Through this some one scrambled and opened the door for the intruders. The bit used for this part of the programme was about one inch in diameter.

The thieves exchanged their old clothing for the choicest specimens of wearing apparel in the way of linen, underwear, and other gents' furnishings. Quite a number of watch chains, scarf pins, cuff buttons, handkerchiefs, fine suits of underwear, and other articles, were carried away. The proprietors of the store were unable to estimate their loss, which is roughly calculated to be $300. The matter was discovered on opening the store yesterday morning, and the police notified. They got to work on the case, and found that the burglars had left several souvenirs in the shape of a hat, which was identified by Messrs. Constable Brothers as their property, some discarded shoes and clothing, and also a brace and bit, all of which are at the Second police-station.

The same party, it is believed, attempted to burglarize Messrs. Rothert & Co.'s furniture store, near by. They bored a number of holes in the back door. The bit, however, repeatedly came in contact with iron bars on the inside, which prevented success. The fifteen holes bored in the lower panel were of the same size as those bored in the door of Constable Brothers' store. It is believed the work was that of the same gang.

Dolly Show at the W. C. A.

There will be an interesting entertainment at the Woman's Christian Association to-morrow afternoon between the hours of 4 and 5:30. The chief feature of the entertainment will be a dolly show. Each child will be presented with a doll, and the child bringing in the greatest number of children will receive a large, handsome doll. The entertainment, which will be under the direction of Mrs. Scruggs, Miss Lawson and Miss Frayser, promises to be a delightful one.

Executive Clemency.

Governor McKinney yesterday removed the political disabilities of Griffin Jones, who, about eighteen years ago, was sentenced in the Chesterfield County Court to a term of imprisonment in jail for petit larceny. The request was granted upon a petition signed by a number of residents from that county.

Pay Your State Taxes.

A list of those delinquent for taxes due the State will be published in The Times next Sunday. Preceding the list, Mr. John K. Childrey, treasurer of this city, states that pursuant with the law he shall offer for sale Monday, December 4th, the described lands in the lists.

Justice John's Court.

His honor was presented with the following docket yesterday morning:

Charles Dean (colored) upon a charge of beating his wife Bettie, was fined $10.50.

Spencer Lee (colored) was fined $3.50 for unlawfully beating Harry Brown.

The most interesting case was that of Thomas Harris and Joe Smith, charged with being disorderly and firing a pistol in the Excelsior Club.

It seems that this club exists for the purpose of Sunday drinking and gambling. His honor sent the case to the Hustings Court, in default of $300 security.

Martha Johnson (colored) on charge of stealing furniture, property of James Woodall, had her case dismissed.

It seems she bought the furniture from Woodall on the installment plan and was unable to pay out Woodall went to her house and took part of the furniture and got out a criminal warrant for her arrest. His honor held that Woodall had recovered the furniture in an illegal manner by trespassing on the woman's premises, so he dismissed the case.

The contents of the public coffers were swelled by the usual $2.50 drunks.

THE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER.

Wholesale Merchants Expect Better Times Now That the Bill Has Passed.

There is a better and more encouraging feeling now existing among the wholesale merchants of Richmond in regard to their fall trade.

A number of the leading wholesale houses were visited by me yesterday, and the concensus of their opinion is about as follows:

July and August were exceptionally dull and discouraging months, but with September and October matters took a more favorable turn. Collections that had almost entirely ceased from the interior districts began to come in slowly, and conservative orders for goods were received. Notes long past due, having been renewed by the Richmond merchants, were curtailed, and as the weeks passed merchants in the small cities and towns of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia began to show a decided disposition to settle old accounts and lay in new stocks. With all, the financial scare, driving money out of circulation, rendering the small banks powerless to aid the farmers and small merchants, had its effect, and to-day, though the outlook is better and there is every promise of a steady improvement, yet the effects of the financial panic can be felt on all sides.

The condition, however, is better, much better, and there are now scenes of activity where a few weeks ago were anxiety and hopelessness to a considerable degree. The country is in a good condition, crops have been good, and just as soon as confidence is restored, money taken from safety vaults, and the farmers can receive a just return for their products, then will have arrived the time when the South will again be in the lead upon the high road of prosperity.

Throughout the entire trouble the Richmond merchants and bankers have been conservative and prudent. They have weathered the storm admirably, and now all of them have strong hopes for better times.

A SPICY DIALOGUE.

Democratic Supremacy Was Ridiculed by the Former Speaker of the House.

The most spicy dialogue which has enlivened the House this session took place yesterday, and as usual Mr. Reed, of Maine, was the hero of it. Mr. Dockery took part in the conversation, but his remarks served largely as handles for the Republican leaders wit.

It was started by a resolution to remit duties on raw material imported by the Navy Department, and amounted to taking money from one branch of the government to settle expenses of another. Mr. Reed expressed his regret that the matter did not take the form of a direct appropriation from the Treasury to pay the amount of the duty. It required an act of Congress in either case, he said, but the $43,000 under this arrangement did not appear in the appropriation bills. "And" continued Mr. Reed, "as there have been some very wicked appropriations in the last two Congresses—"

Mr. Dockery—No; not in the last two Congresses. In the Fifty-first.

Mr. Reed—Only wicked in the Fifty-first.

Mr. Dockery—Yes.

Mr. Reed—I suppose there was no occasion for wickedness in the Fifty-second?

Mr. Dockery—No. We were left a legacy by the Fifty-first Congress and had to make provision to meet it. We were imposed on by the legislation of the Fifty-first.

Mr. Reed—Well, you are very easily imposed upon. You had control of it, and you made bigger appropriations than we ever did, and you have been going around the country ever since making excuses for it. You had better make smaller appropriations, and then you would have needed fewer excuses.

Mr. Dockery—One hundred and fifty-four millions of the appropriations of the Fifty-second Congress were entailed by the legislation of the Fifty-first Congress.

Mr. Reed—Yes, "entailed." You were children in swaddling clothes. Things are "entailed" upon you all the time. You are going about the country from one end to the other talking about what has been "entailed" upon you. Why don't you do something yourselves?

Mr. Dockery—I will say in reply to the suggestion of the gentleman from Maine that I trust, with the House Democratic and the Senate Democratic, we will be able at this session, or at the regular session of Congress, to repeal some of this legislation that has imposed these extraordinary taxes upon the people.

Mr. Reed—You have not done very much repealing up to date.

Mr. Dockery—We have had no opportunity heretofore.

Mr. Reed—No opportunity? You have had three months. What do you call opportunity? You have had the House, and the Senate, and the President, partially.(Laughter.) Why in the world don't you do something?

Mr. Dockery—I want to say that during this extra session an effort has been made and is now being made, to repeal a part of the legislation enacted by the Fifty-first Congress.

Mr. Reed—I notice that the gentleman from Missouri did not paticipate in that effort to repeal. (Referring to Mr. Dockery's vote against the Wilson bill.)

Mr. Dockery—The gentleman from Missouri did and does desire to repeal that law (the Sherman act) with conditions that will be just to all sections of the country.

Mr. Reed—Exactly. That is what some of you good people always want—righteousness with conditions.—Washington Post.

The highest price per pound ever paid for tea was at the Mincing Lane tea auction on February 5, 1891, when a five-pound parcel of "Golden Tip" from Ceylon was knocked down at £25 10s. per pound, or at a sum equal to $123 in United States currency.

Closed To-Day.

The store of Fourqurean, Price & Co., will be closed to-day on account of the death of Mr. Adolphus Blair, a brother of J. Harvie Blair, a member of the firm.
