TALES OF KIPLING.

He Declined a Knighthood Offered Him by the Queen, Because He Did Not See of What Benefit it Would Be to Him.

There are few personalities among the men of letters more interesting than that of Rudyard Kipling...

ard of his paper and he has had many a laugh over the fact that one of his stories laid for many years in a pigeon-hole at the office of St. Nicholas...

When the copy was turned over to the editor almost three months into a fit "Here, you men with spectacles, he shouted, 'whoever told you that you were a newspaper man must have been joking. Go and try shoe-making.' Kipling left the office and never applied for another on a daily paper...

It is not generally known that Kipling has declined a title at the hands of the Queen. About three years ago he was offered knighthood and he refused to accept the honor on the ground that he did not see of what benefit such a position would be to him...

Among all the stories that have been told of Kipling, few, if any, have furnished any information in regard to his religious belief and although this is a subject which has always interested him, it is one upon which his friends have been silent...

But angels themselves 'can no sympathy feel' For 'the serpent is bruising his heel; And Jesus, the sinless for us made sin, To open salvation and let the world in...

ventions of Kipling's brain. They actually lived and the exploits that are described with such realistic humor actually occurred when the author was a student at the Union Service College...

showing mercy, prayer, repentance, all of which play an important part in the verses of so many poets seem to be quite foreign to Kipling's attitude towards spirituality. His vein of religious feeling is most in evidence in the numbers of the so-called ethical feeling of the day...

Kipling's religion, however, is evidently of "the heart and of the viscera," his faith is in humanity, in courage and in self-undertaking. As has been said by one critic, "it is a religion for Tommy Atkins and the crew of the Victoria to live and die by."
