

BASEBALL GAME ON SATURDAY.

Yale and the University of Virginia to Cross Bats.

COLLEGE HAS A STRONG TEAM.

The Cherrubs are Beginning to Appear Upon the Scene, and Training Will Begin Here on To-Morrow.

When Virginia lines up on Saturday against Yale the spectators will see as fine a contest as can be found in college athletics.

Nalle's work behind the bat is good—his catching not so good as might be expected, but his throwing being of the highest order.

At first base will be found, in all probability, Wills—a fine fielder, a strong batsman, and a first base runner.

At second base, Curley, a new man at Yale, is making a name for himself, and if his work on Saturday is as good as his practice work would indicate, our baseball people will have a chance to see the position played by Steptoe.

At third base, the position will be played by Steptoe, and doing it as well as he played short-stop last year. His magnificent "throwing arm" will let him do what few men can do—catch a ball a short distance from the pitcher and catch his man.

At fourth base, the position will be played by Steptoe, and doing it as well as he played short-stop last year. His magnificent "throwing arm" will let him do what few men can do—catch a ball a short distance from the pitcher and catch his man.

VICTORY FOR THE ORANGE AND BLUE

The University Team Defeats LaFayette by a Score of 7 to 5.

THE GAME CLOSELY CONTESTED.

The Result was Not Assured Until the Ninth Inning, when Curley's Home Run Brought in Three Men and Won the Game.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., March 25. Special.—The victory of the Orange and Blue team which lasted two hours did not prevent the base-ball game between the University of Virginia and Lafayette, and went through to the end of the contest.

Not until the ninth inning when Curley knocked home run, bringing in Pinkerton and Wills ahead of him, did the Orange and Blue team feel satisfied that the game was won for Virginia.

The contest was called at 3:15 by Umpire G. W. Betts, who will also officiate in the games to be played here with Cornell, Lehigh, Yale and Princeton.

The excitement began in the eighth, the score up to that time being four to one in favor of Virginia. Hubley hit a grounder to Steptoe, who allowed it to go between the legs. Bray flied to Bonney and Chalmers hit a safe one over short-stop. Lauer was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were full. Nevins hit a speedy one to Martin, who fumbled and threw it into the hands of Hubley and Chalmers.

In the ninth inning, Curley, who was at bat, was hit by a pitched ball, and he walked. In the tenth inning, Curley hit a home run, bringing in three men and winning the game for Virginia.

The quick double play by Steptoe, Curley and Wills, and the brilliant running catch by Bonney brought down the rosters.

For Lafayette the pitching of Nevins, the fielding of Congdon, and the stick work of Chalmers and Hubley were the features.

For Virginia, the pitching of Curley, the fielding of Steptoe, and the stick work of Wills and Hubley were the features.

The game was a close one, and the result was not assured until the ninth inning, when Curley's home run brought in three men and won the game for Virginia.
