RAIN INTERFERED.

Newark and Richmond Will Play This Afternoon.

The fast Newark team came to the city yesterday morning for a series of games with the Cherubs, but for the first time this season the rain interfered and no game was played. The game for this afternoon will be played at the usual hour.

Manager Wells left for Philadelphia last night to attend the meeting of the league at the Hanover Hotel. A new schedule will be formulated and a plan will be perfected to carry the league through to a finish.

The general impression is that six clubs will finish the season; that another club will be dropped, but that the club to be dropped will be decided upon by the league at the meeting to-day.

The Atlantic League has not disbanded, nor is there a probability that it will disband. There is too much at stake for those who have put their money and time in the league. It is known that at least five National League clubs are anxious to secure certain players from Richmond, and several players in the other clubs in this league are also wanted.

The National League clubs are willing to pay for the release of these players, and it would be folly for the Atlantic League magnates to throw up the sponge at this stage.

The Cherubs have been playing National League ball all season, and in the present condition of the league the rooter can do much toward holding it together by proper encouragement in the way of patronage.

Wilkesbarre, 6; Lancaster, 5.

LANCASTER, PA., July 6.—Lancaster this afternoon had Wilkesbarre beaten up to the ninth inning, when Wilhelm suddenly weakened, and several hits and a couple of errors let Wilkesbarre tie the score. They won out in the tenth on hits by Coughlin and O'Dwell. Throughout it was a close and very exciting contest. Score:

NO REVOLUTION.

The Reports of Disturbances at Sofia, in Bulgaria, Are Denied.

BUDAPEST, July 6.—Newspapers here publish a story from Belgrade to the effect that a revolution was inaugurated at Sofia yesterday. According to the accounts published, a mob paraded the streets, some of the troops joining in the demonstration. It was added that Prince Ferdinand had fled the country and that the telegraph wires had been cut. Advices received to-day from Belgrade state that there is absolutely no confirmation of the alleged revolution in Bulgaria. Officials here entirely discredit the statements in the Belgrade dispatches.

VIENNA, July 6.—Nothing is known here confirmatory of the published story of the revolutionary disturbances at Sofia, Bulgaria. In official quarters the report is utterly discredited.

Rioting Continues.

LONDON, July 6.—Despite assertions to the contrary, rioting in Barcelona was renewed last night. A mob stoned a number of shops and were charged by the gendarmes. The mob showed fight, firing revolvers at the gendarmes, who returned the fire. In the encounter three gendarmes and a large number of rioters were wounded. Eighteen arrests were made.

IN THE TRANSVAAL.

The Volksraad Extends the Right of Franchise—England Active.

PRETORIA, July 6.—The Volksraad sat in secret session to-day, President Kruger and the negotiators from the Orange Free State being present. It is understood that an agreement was reached to grant the franchise immediately to all settlers prior to 1890, and to other classes of residents within seven years, the naturalization clause to be optional.

LONDON, July 7.—The Times this morning announces that several officers have been ordered to proceed to South Africa to organize the residents as well as the police and local forces at various points on the frontier.

"Additional special officers" said the Times," are likely to be sent out during the next few days and the commander-in-chief has been engaged in completing the composition and organization of a larger force, which it will be necessary to dispatch should the negotiation with the Transvaal fail."

A Murderer Convicted.

FREDERICK, MD., July 6.—Armistead Taylor (colored) was convicted to-day in the Circuit Court of Frederick county, of the murder on May 13th of Mrs. Rosa Rosenstein, at Slidell, Montgomery county. The Rosenstelns were found unconscious in their store on the morning of May 13th. They were removed to Baltimore hospital, where they subsequently died without regaining consciousness.

A few days later Taylor was located in a house in Georgetown, D. C., and shot and killed Policeman Passau before he surrendered. The negro secured between $90 and $80, part of which was recovered.

Mohawks Endorse Bryan.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 6.—The Mohawks, a Democratic organization, said to comprise 600 wigwams and over 10,000 active members, which has been in secret session since the 3d instant, has elected officers and adjourned to meet next year in the city selected for the National Democratic Convention, one week prior to that convention. Steps were taken to begin immediately the work of organizing new wigwams.

The National Executive Committee was reduced from 13 to 7 members. The resolution adopted denounced trusts and monopolies, endorse Bryan and free silver and oppose militarism.

Holland's Queen Entertains.

AMSTERDAM, July 6.—Queen Wilhelmina and the Queen's mother arrived here this evening, and, amid a great popular demonstration, proceeded to the palace.

The members of the International Peace Conference arrived at 6:30 o'clock this evening by special train from The Hague, and proceeded from the station directly to the palace, where they were received by the Queens, after which they were entertained at a magnificent banquet at the palace.

Amendment Rejected.

LONDON, July 6.—The House of Commons this evening rejected the amendment to the London Government bill, proposed by Right Hon. Leonard Henry Courtney, Unionist member for the Bodmin division of Cornwall, permitting the election of women as councillors, by a vote of 246 against the amendment and 377 in its favor. The House of Lords' amendment, providing for the exclusion of women from the office of councillor, was then formally agreed to.

THE PRISONERS TO BE RELEASED

a ransom. He asserted, however, that Aguinaldo had already issue a decree for the release of the civilian officials and the sick soldiers. The commissioners, with the remnant of the Spanish garrison of Baler, on the east coast of Luzon, and a number of civilian prisoners, were escorted by Filipino soldiers from Tarlac to the American outposts at San Fernando, and came to Manila by the night train. The heroes of the long defence of Baler, where the Spaniards resisted an insurgent siege for more than a year, formed a picturesque band. Lieutenant Martin, the only surviving officer, marched them through the streets.

There are only twenty-two, and most of them are mere boys, in faded blue cotton uniforms and red shirts. They are barefooted.

A crowd of Spanish men and women embraced them, weeping and shouting their praises.

They tell a remarkable story. It appears that the captain several times proposed to surrender, but the soldiers refused. Finally some months ago he tried to raise a white flag. Thereupon Lieutenant Martin killed him with his own sword. Their food supply gave out entirely a week ago, and they surrendered to the Filipinos with all the honors of war. They were allowed to keep their arms, and they say they marched from Baler, with a Filipino escort, and carrying guns, through several insurgent camps, everywhere being cheered and feted.

MME. DREYFUS MORE CHEERFUL.

Her Interviews With Her Husband Seem to Have Been Brighter.

(Copyright 1899, The Associated Press).

RENNES, FRANCE, July 6.—Madame Dreyfus on leaving the prison to-day appeared in much better spirits than yesterday.

It was evident that her conversations with her husband had been of a more cheerful nature. A large crowd had gathered in the hope of witnessing her arrival and departure, but the gendarmes cleared the streets adjacent to the prison and the spectators caught only a passing glimpse of her as she drove rapidly in a closed carriage to the residence of Madame Gegard.

From a point overlooking the prison the correspondent of the Associated Press saw Captain Dreyfus emerge into the court yard to-day for an hour's exercise. He was dressed in a blue serge suit and wore a soft felt hat. He walked slowly across the yard with his hands in the pockets of his jacket. His head was slightly bent forward, so that it was impossible to see the features. As he crossed the yard he was preceded and followed by a prison warder. The three passed through another door leading to a garden, in the center of the prison, where Dreyfus takes exercise, and disappeared.

HE SAW THE PRESIDENT.

General Henderson Has a Conference With Mr. McKinley.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—General Henderson, of Iowa, the prospective speaker of the House, had a conference with the President to-day, but at the conclusion of the call, stated that no general questions had been discussed.

When asked as to the prospects of an extra session of Congress, he said:

"For myself I have never thought that Congress would be called together in advance of the regular time for I have never thought there was any occasion for an extra session."

The West Virginia Cracker.

The West Virginia mountaineer lives very close to Nature, and viewed from many standpoints the relation is characterized by pleasing amenities: juicy berries refresh him along the road; nuts drop into his patch; "sang" (ginseng), which makes one of his sources of revenue, reveals itself to his eye as he follows the cows to pasture; a cool brook springs up to quench his thirst when weary of following the plow; pine knots are always within reach to make light as well as warmth; mud and stones easily combine in his hand to shape a daub chimney; and a trough dug out of an old tree furnishes a receptacle that is as good for dough at one end as for a baby at the other.

Often, however, this close relation to Nature assumes a war attitude, fierce and uncompromising. If hungry wolves no longer howl furiously at the back fence after nightfall, or gnaw at the log pens which secure the stock, and if panthers are seldom bold enough to spring at a horse's flanks as a man rides along in the daytime, bears are still numerous enough to devour a large number of sheep every year in spite of precautions, and they have a pronounced taste for sweet young corn.—From Folklore of the Alleghanies, by F. A. Doughty, in Appletons' Popular Science Monthly for July.

THE COLUMBIA WAS THE VICTOR

She Easily Defeated the Vanderbilt Yacht, Defender.

WILL KEEP THE CUP THIS FALL.

Her Admirers are Certain That the Shamrock Will Leave the Precious Trophy in America. Details of the Race.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Over a triangular course of thirty miles in comparatively light winds, the new Iselin-Morgan yacht Columbia to-day vanquished the Vanderbilt yacht Defender and convinced the yachtsmen who saw the royal struggle that she is worthy of defending the precious trophy which Sir Thomas Lipton and his merry lars hope to take back with them in the Shamrock next fall. Based upon the showing she made as a better boat than the Defender under adverse conditions, the nautical sharps are strongly convinced that Sir Thomas will sail home without the silver mug, the possession of which has given us the yachting supremacy of the world since 1851.

To-day's race plainly demonstrated that no matter how skillfully constructed a yacht may be, her sailing and ability to go to windward may be killed by imperfectly setting sails.

The Columbia won the race by a margin of three minutes, fifty-three seconds (unofficial time). There is no doubt she would have won by a larger margin if her sails had fitted as well as the Defender's.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

But to-day's race was an unsatisfactory one. Shifting, baffling winds, and a bad, lumpy sea with dirty rain squalls made the conditions anything but ideal for yacht racing.

In windward work the Columbia, with sails drawing badly, demonstrated her superiority, and in a long reach with sheets eased she outfooted the Vanderbilt boat. Sudden shifting of the wind prevented a trial at running with spinnakers. In light weather, close hauled therefore, it can be said that she is undoubtedly the Defender's superior, but what she can do in a piping breeze remains to be seen.

Through a blunder or by design Captain Barr, of the Columbia, gave the Defender a start equal to her time allowance, about two minutes. The boat to windward made a beautiful race. The interest was intense. The Columbia seemed more tender than the Defender—more tender, but perhaps more stately as she lay down to her work. Miniature cataracts poured from her gunwaling decks when the water spurted twenty feet from her bows, but as she lifted beautifully she looked like a huge gull rising from the water. Then the talent began to get nervous. Gradually, but surely, the Defender was drawing ahead. It did not take the yachtsmen long to discover the cause. The Defender's sails fit to perfection, while those of the Columbia were loose and cracked in the ten knot breeze. Half an hour later the wind sank to about five knots and immediately the sails of the Columbia began to draw and she began to gain upon her adversary.

THE RACE WON.

The Columbia continued to gain on every tack, and a few minutes before the first mark was reached she crossed the Defender's bow on the starboard tack. Then the nautical sharps breathed easier. She rounded the stake exactly one minute ahead of the Defender. On the long reach for the second mark, with the wind abeam, the Columbia gained 8 seconds. It was now only a question of how much the Columbia would beat the Defender, and many of the steamers and tugs headed back for the finish. Gracefully and noiselessly the Columbia swept over the invisible finish line, and as she crossed she was given a royal salute. As the Defender crossed the line she also was greeted with a demonstration quite as enthusiastic and prolonged.

Herbert Leeds, on behalf of Mr. Iselin, said after the race that the friends of the Columbia were very well satisfied and hoped to do better when their sails were made more trim.

The race to-day was an informal trial for a cup offered by the New York Yacht Club.

EAST AGAINST THE WEST.

The Two Sections Lock Horns To-Day for Golf Championship.

ONWENTSIA CLUB HOUSE, LAKE FOREST, ILL., July 6.—Three Eastern players and one Westerner will contest in the semi-finals to-morrow for the amateur golf championship.

The games to-day resulted in the defeat of John Reid, Jr., the inter-collegiate champion, by W. J. Travis, of the Oakley Country Club; Gardiner G. Hubbard, by Champion Findlay S. Douglass; H. H. Toler by H. M. Harriman, and J. G. Throp by Charles B. McDonald, the sole survivor of the Western golfers, who started the week's playing.

The scores in the games between Douglass and Hubbard, and Harriman and Toler were rather one sided, Douglass winning 7 up and 6 to play, while Harriman won 6 up and 4 to play. Unless the form played by the golfers to-day is deceptive, Douglass will contest in the finals Saturday. He meets W. J. Travis then, and the general opinion is that Douglass will win, although he is far from perfect in his form to-day.

As to the match between McDonald and Harriman, opinion is undecided. Both played splendid golf to-day. McDonald negotiated the first nine holes in the afternoon for 39, but fell away somewhat when he had the game apparently won. The weather to-day was apparently to the liking of the golfers and over links that the warm sun and wind of yesterday had put in an almost perfect condition for the game, and more beautiful golf was witnessed than on any day previous during the tournament.

AFTER AN ABSCONDER.

New York Financier Said to Be in Europe With Half a Million.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Detective Charles Heidelberg sailed for Europe to-day aboard the American liner St. Louis, in search of a man who is said to have absconded with more than $500,000 in money and negotiable bonds and securities.

The alleged absconder is well known in financial circles. He was then secretary and treasurer of one of the largest stock brokerage syndicates in the Wall street district, it was said to-day. He had the absolute confidence of the other officers of the company, and thus managed to cover his tracks so as to avoid immediate detection. The missing securities were deposited with the syndicate by a concern which was planning to increase its capital stock.

Four weeks ago the treasurer failed to appear at his office. Two days later the directors held a secret meeting and decided to put experts on the books. They had heard reports that the missing treasurer had lost a lot of money in speculation. It did not take the experts long to discover that something was wrong with the books. It was also found that the treasurer had not been at his home since he left the office for good.

The case was at once put in the hands of Mr. Heidelberg, whose detectives found that their man had sailed from Boston on a tramp steamer for Europe.—Philadelphia Press.

GEORGIA LAWYERS.

State Bar Association Began Its Annual Session at Warm Springs.

WARM SPRINGS, GA., July 6.—The Bar Association of Georgia opened its annual session here to-day. In point of attendance the convention is a record breaker. At to-day's session Judge Hamilton McWhorter, president of the Association, delivered an address on "The Law—Its Courts and Ministers." Two of the principal topics on which papers will be read are municipal ownership and the best method of State taxation.

Some misunderstanding prevails regarding the time of the arrival of Hon. W. L. Wilson, who is down to deliver the principal address of the meeting. He was confidently expected to-night, but it was learned that he cannot get here before late to-morrow night. He will thus be unable to address the Association before Saturday, and it is now believed the gathering will have finished its business and adjourned before that time.

An effort is being made to ascertain the exact time of arrival of Mr. Wilson.

Robert I. Owen.

LYNCHBURG, VA., July 6.—Special.—Robert I. Owen, one of the most prominent business men of Lynchburg, died to-night of appendicitis. He had an attack of cholera morbus in Philadelphia on June 20th, and appendicitis developed after his return home. Deceased was born in Madison county, Ala., in 1854, and came to Lynchburg in 1872 and engaged in the tobacco business. IMP CAPTURED THE BRIGHTON

The Fast Western Mare Has Another Handicap to Her Credit.

A NEW TRACK RECORD WAS MADE

The Mile and a Quarter Was Made in 2:05 2-5—Ethelbert, Winner of the Realization, Was Second With Bangle in Third Place.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Brighton Beach Racing Association opened its gates to-day with several stakes on the card of which the Brighton Handicap was the feature. Imp, the fast western mare, who won the Suburban, was the winner of the Brighton Handicap, at a long price, in the fast time of 2:05 2-5, a new track record. Ethelbert, the pronounced favorite and winner of the Realization, was second under the wire, with Bangle in third place. The track was in excellent condition.

ALL IN A BUNCH.

For the Brighton Handicap, May Hempstead, the western filly, was second choice, with little to choose between Imp, Bangle, Martimas and Maxine at longish odds. The start was good on all but Bangle and the Suburban winner, Imp, was the first to poke her black muzzle in front. Past the grandstand for the first time, Imp was in front by half a length with Ethelbert second, a nose in front of Martimas. At the half mile pole the watches showed :49 1-5 seconds, and Imp had a length to the good, with the others close up in a bunch, going well within themselves. Before the mile was reached Ethelbert began slowly slipping back, and as they passed the mile post in the fast time of 1:40 2-5, Imp showed not the slightest distress, O'Leary not having moved on her.

SPENCER'S MISTAKE.

Spencer was at work on Ethelbert and Bangle had worked his way into fourth place, O'Leary let out a link on the leader, and she took another length. Not here Ethelbert came with a rush, and foot by foot he was overhauling the flying leader. It was not a rush enough gain to suit Spencer, and he drew the whip. As he loosed his hold the Realization winner faltered perceptibly, and while he might not have won if Spencer had left the whip alone, he might have been a little nearer. At the finish the crowd yelled frantically, for Imp is popular with the masses, and as the watch stopped at 2:05 2-5, it showed a new record for the track, and very close to that for the distance on any circular track.

The finish of the First Attempt stakes was a hot one. Mesmerist was the favorite, ran at the front of the lot to the last furlong, and looked a sure winner, when Plucky, who had been running second, came at him with a rush, wore him down inch by inch, and with his fifteen pounds advantage, won by a nose.
