Colored Girl Missing from Her Home. Will of Mrs. Goode Probated—Licking Creek Club Chartered—Other News—Personal Notes.

Manchester Bureau, Richmond Times, 1112 Hull street, Beattie Block.

Dr. Ingram, president of the Board of Health of Manhester, was officially apprised of the existence of yellow fever at Hampton yesterday, through the Secretary of the Governor, Mr. Ben. P. Owen. In an interview last night Dr. Ingram said that although the sanitary condition of the city is excellent, still the Board of Health is taking every precaution to prevent the advent of the dread disease.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The political pot in Manchester is only simmering. No discussions are being indulged in regarding the merits or demerits of the several candidates for the Legislature, but the quiet citizens who are willing to express themselves seem to favor the re-election of Senator Martin. The Legislative candidates have not expressed their preferences, but say they will be guided by the instructions of the people at the primary early in September. As yet, no one has entered the field as candidates for the State Senate in opposition to Mr. I. V. Cogbill.

POLICE REPORT.

The report of the Chief of Police for the month of July show that thirty-six arrests were made as follows: Misdemeanor, 18; ordinance violations, 15; attempted suicide, 1. By the chief, 15; Officer Jones, 5; Officer Smith, 2; Officer Wright, 9; Chief and Wright, 1; Chief and Smith, 2.

A colored boy named Isaiah Harris, living in Chesterfield county while in bathing near the Broad Rock Road on Sunday, struck his head against a wire fence and badly cut it. He was attended by Dr. Ingram and made as comfortable as possible.

MIDDLE DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

The Middle District Baptist Association of Virginia, embracing the churches of Manchester, Chesterfield and Powhatan counties, will meet in annual session at Clopton-Street church, beginning Tuesday, August 8th, and continuing for three days.

This meeting will be presided over by Rev. Dr. L. R. Thornhill, the moderator. The clerk is Mr. J. Haskins Hobson.

This session will be an interesting one as some important papers will be read.

During the session the Baptist Woman's Auxiliary will also meet at West End church, presided over by Miss Estelle Rudd, of Powhatan.

WILL PROBATED.

The will of the late Mrs. Eudora V. Goode was probated in the Hustings Court yesterday. The estate is valued at $2,300, and is mostly real estate. The bulk of the property is left to her grandchildren, living in this city.

Besides the estate mentioned above the deceased bequeathed to her daughters, Mary V. Scott and Jamesetta E. Jones, her granddaughter, Eliza Maude Griffbeth, and her grandson, Wm. Leslie Gibbs, to be equally divided, all property owned by her in Ohio and Kentucky.

MISSING COLORED GIRL.

A colored girl named Mary Graves, living in Mayo's Addition, Chesterfield county, has disappeared from her home.

She is fourteen years old, large for her age, and is light brown in color. When she was last seen, on Saturday evening, about 5 o'clock, she wore a pink shirt waist and a light skirt.

Her parents are greatly worried. They can give no reason for her disappearance, save the fact that she grew angry because her father failed to get her a hat and sash that he had promised her on Saturday.

A search has been made for her, but without avail. Her parents, who are respectable colored people, would be glad to learn of her whereabouts.

LICKING CREEK CLUB.

Judge Ingram granted a charter yesterday morning to the "Licking Creek Club." The purposes of the club are to purchase, lease and hold lands and water power, to operate saw mills, grist mills, or other mills for manufacturing purposes, and to propagate or rear fish of imported or native stock. The fish are to be taken for the use of the company and its shareholders, or to be sold, as may be deemed best, and to be propagated, reared and taken under such regulations and by-laws as the company may establish, and to be protected from injury and depredation.

The capital stock is to be not less than $1,000, nor more than $5,000, divided into shares of $200 each, which may be paid for in labor, services, personal or real property. The amount of real estate shall not exceed 1,000 acres, and the principal office is to be in Manchester.

Officers for the first year are: President, John G. Rice, Manchester; Vice-President, Rev. T. Crump, Richmond; Secretary, S. R. Owen, Manchester. Directors: The above, except Mr. Owen, and H. E. Harnish, J. A. Brown, L. M. Nunnally and A. C. Atkinson.

Licking Creek is situated in Chesterfield county about ten miles from Manchester, and is a popular resort for local fishermen.

CHURCH DEDICATED.

Dr. W. E. Hatcher presided at the services and the dedicatory sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith, of Richmond. Rev. Joel B. Tucker read the Scriptures, and prayers were offered by Rev. L. R. Thornhill and Rev. Dr. Willingham.

The music, under the direction of Mr. W. J. Morrisette, was a feature, and was most impressive and enjoyable.

The collection taken up was most gratifying.

THE KENTUCKY SPLIT.

Opposition to Goebel to Take Definite Form in New Ticket.

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 30.—The fierce dissension that has been seething in the Democratic party of Kentucky ever since the adoption of the Chicago platform in 1896 has culminated in a movement to name a third ticket. The element which prided itself upon its observance of party rule has been torn asunder in the struggle for office, and the members are now denouncing each other with bitterness. Another convention will be called, the date to be decided on at a conference in Lexington on August 2d, and a new ticket will be nominated. The candidate for the chief office is former Governor John Young Brown, whose position and influence in the party for thirty years were never disputed. The convention will probably be held in Lexington or Louisville on August 29th or 30th.

The grounds alleged for the calling of a new convention are, briefly, that Senator Goebel secured his nomination by force and fraud. The convention was held in Louisville, and Goebel, with the assistance of the city administration, it is charged, packed the hall with policemen, which enabled him to control the delegations. By means of an agreement with William J. Stone, Mr. Goebel organized the convention and elected a chairman, Judge D. B. Redwine, whose rulings were of the most arbitrary nature and exclusively in the Goebel interest.

The point is now made that Redwine was never legally chosen chairman of the convention, and that this fault has invalidated the nomination of Goebel and all the other proceedings. Judge Redwine was elected after the Credentials Committee had passed upon the contests of 316 delegates, the Harolin delegates being unseated in every case of controversy with either Stone or Goebel men. The report of the committee was voted on as a whole, and was adopted by the votes of but 441 delegates. There were 1,092 accredited delegates in the convention, and the point is made that 547, a majority of the whole number, should have voted for the report, failing which there was no adoption. The point was made or attempted to be made, in the convention, but Judge Redwine, who was also temporary chairman, refused to hear it, and ruled that the report was adopted. Subsequently, upon every necessary occasion, the chairman ruled arbitrarily, refusing to put obnoxious motions to the house on the ground that they were introduced for dilatory purposes.

None was more surprised than Mr. Goebel at the suddenness with which the disaffection came to a head in the announcement of Mr. Brown's candidacy. The former Governor had been a straight party man all his life, and arrangements had been confidently made for his assistance in the work of electing the Goebel ticket.

Mr. Brown is desperately in earnest in the matter, for when asked by a friend if his announcement was authorized, he replied:

"Yes, sir, it is authorized, and, more, whether I am placed at the head of the ticket or some good man like the brave and honorable Philip Johnston, I intend to take the stump and do all I can to prevent this awful disgrace of Goebel's election being inflicted on the State. I have never in my life had anything to crystallize itself in my mind and heart as this purpose. I feel as if this were an inspiration, and that the spirit of '76 were urging me to it. It is a duty I owe to the history of my State and to the priceless heritage that a long line of great and noble men have left us to guard. Their very graves cry out, calling on me to appeal to the manhood and honor of Kentucky to prevent the defilement of the house of our fathers. My bridges are burned behind me, and, utterly regardless of my future, political or personal, I see my duty, and, so help me God, I intend to do it. I intend to appeal to the sons, for the sake of the fights their fathers made, to save the life of the Democratic party and the honor of the State."

Goebel has three vulnerable points in his record, aside from his manipulation of the Louisville convention and his broken promises to Stone. He is the author of the Goebel election law, which puts the control of the State elections wholly in the hands of an election board of three commissioners, who appoint all county election officers, canvass the returns and report the vote. Nearly three years ago he shot and killed John Canford, a broker and former Confederate soldier, of Covington. He was attacked by Sanford, and the killing was easily proved to be in self-defence. His silver record is also unsatisfactory to the silver extremists.

The revolt against the regular Democracy will have the support of some prominent party men, including P. P. Johnston, who was for five years chairman of the State Central Committee; former Representative W. C. Owens, John H. Whallen, the Louisville boss, who has been engaged in a fight for existence with the Goebel party; Joseph O'Neal, John L. Dunlap, and most of the extremists of this city.

The Republicans have taken immense heart and hope from the revolt, and now feel that victory for their ticket is certain.—New York Herald.

IRON ORE PRODUCTION.

Record for the Year Ten Per Cent More Than Previous Maximum.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Special.—The report of the Geological Survey on the production of iron ore for the year 1898 has been completed by Special Agent John Birkinbine. The year recorded the maximum iron ore production for the United States, a total of 19,273,369 long tons. This was 1,760,222 long tons, or ten per cent, in excess of the previous maximum of 17,518,046 long tons produced in 1897.

This is also a greater amount than has been mined by any other country in one year, being over one and a quarter millions tons above the total recorded for Great Britain in 1880, when 18,026,040 long tons were mined. The ores of the British Isles also average lower percentages of metal than those exploited in this country and therefore represent a smaller pig metal product.

The variety of iron ores produced includes red hematite, the output of which was 82 per cent. of the total; brown hematite which was 10.3 per cent. of the aggregate product. Magnetite and carbonate ores make up the remaining 6.7 per cent.

The total output in long tons of all varieties by States was: Michigan, 7,346,846; Minnesota, 5,963,509; Alabama, 2,401,748; Pennsylvania, 775,052; Tennessee, 393,227; Virginia, 557,715; Wisconsin, 509,645; Colorado, 218,680; New Jersey, 275,438; New York, 179,561; Georgia and North Carolina, 100,083; Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming, 55,969; Missouri, 50,000; Ohio, 42,868; Kentucky, 12,912; Connecticut and Massachusetts, 20,251; Texas, 9,705; Maryland, 5,941.

Nat Turner's Sword.

The Suffolk Herald prints the following:

Newsoms, Va., July 21, 1899.

In you issue of July 14, 1899, appeared an item stating that the sword of Nat Turner, leader of the negro insurrection which occurred in Southampton county in 1831, was in the possession of Mr. Frank Alford, of Suffolk, whose father was a member of Captain Day's Portsmouth company that captured Nat.

I wish to say that if Mr. Alford has Nat Turner's sword it must have come from Mr. James D. Westbrook, of this county, who owned it up to a few years ago, to my certain knowledge. A cavalry company from Norfolk or Portsmouth came to this county, but they did not capture Nat, for he was not caught for some two or three months.

The insurrection collapsed at the residence of Dr. Blunt, the place where Mr. R. S. Pope now lives, near Pope Station, on the Atlantic and Danville railroad. Dr. Blunt's negroes told him that they were going to fight for him, and he directed them to get their axes and grubbing hoes and stay in his yard. (Negroes were not alowed to have firearms of any kind). The insurrectionists reached Dr. Blunt's about sunrise, and when in his yard, half way from the gate to the house, the whites upstairs opened fire and hit some of them, but did not kill any one. Nat seeing Dr. Blunt's negroes ready to fight, told his men that as the negroes and whites were all against them, he should leave and shift for himself, and they could do the same. There were only about eight whites in the house. Dr. Blunt had a son sixteen years old who displayed great bravery, for which he was made a midshipman in the United States navy. He has been dead many years.

Nat went off and dug a cave in the ground, but after a while he found that a dog had discovered his hiding place. He then went to the neighborhood where he was raised and dug another cave on the land of Dr. Musgrave, my wife's father. The neighbors got up parties and went through the woods looking for him. The last time they went to look for Nat they scattered through the woods, and finally a man named Benjamin Phipps found the cave. He called for the others, and stuck his gun through the top covering and told Nat to throw out everything he had or he would kill him, and Nat threw out his gun and sword. I do not believe that Nat made the sword. Mr. Benjamin Phipps certainly found Nat and captured him.

I do not write this thinking you knew you were publishing what was not true, but only to correct a mistake as to the facts of the case. Very respectfully,

JAMES J. DARDEN.

Newsoms, Va., July 21, 1899.

(COMMUNICATED).

MR. MARTIN DEFENDED.

Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I noticed in your paper a few days since a controversy between Hon. W. A. Jones and Mr. Green, in which the former asked that one single thing that Mr. Martin had done for the good of Virginia might be mentioned. My inclination, in simple justice to Mr. Martin, was at once to reply in the affirmative, but I was not at that time well enough to do so. I will state here that I am out of politics and have no favors to ask of any politician. During the Lee and Martin campaign I was an avowed Lee man, took an active part and did all that was in my power for his election. When the tariff bill was being prepared I found clauses in it which meant ruin not only to myself but to all manufacturers of paper boxes. Committees were formed from all parts of the country to take this matter up and bring every influence to bear upon representatives and members in Congress. Many letters were written and fair promises made. When our committee reached Washington, representing the paper-box manufacturers from all over the United States, with a capital of $20,000,000 and employing over 100,000 hands, we found the Senators we had communicated with too busy to pay any attention to us. Senator Foraker, of Ohio, could not give us an audience. Mr. Platt, of New York, excused himself, although the chairman of our committee was chairman of the Republican City Committee, of Troy, N. Y., and personally acquainted with him. Senator Quay could not meet the Pennsylvania delegation. After much delay Senator Primrose gave us an audience of a few minutes, and although he had written very polite letters, knew nothing of the question. I saw Mr. Daniel on two occasions, and although I fully explained our position, he took no interest in the subject. The same letters had been written to each senator, including Mr. Martin, whom we then approached. He made an appointment for that evening, took time to carefully consider the whole matter, advised us to reduce our committee to two persons, which was done by the appointment of Mr. Bisler, of Philadelphia, and myself. Mr. Martin then explained that the chief difficulty was to get a hearing from Mr. Allison, chairman of the Tariff Committee. In a few days Mr. Martin succeeded in making an appointment for us, and in thirty minutes' interview had the paragraph we had framed inserted in the tariff bill, giving entire satisfaction to the manufacturers. Mr. Martin laid aside any personal feeling in my having opposed his election and was strong enought to consider the good of the many who were employed by me. Mr. Bisler, of the Pennsylvania committee, was so much pleased with Mr. Martin's promptness and business ability, without which we could never have obtained an interview with Mr. Allison, that as chairman of the Pennsylvania committee wrote a letter thanking him.

As at first stated, I write this letter to refute the charge that Mr. Martin has never done anything for the good of Virginia, for had not this clause been inserted at least three hundred hands would have been thrown out of employment from this State alone.

This is written without consent or knowledge of Mr. Martin.
