

men see he would have been often called upon to serve his fellow-countrymen in other capacities than that of physician.

From its inception he was president of the Farmville Building and Trust Co. whose brilliant business career is splendid monument to the sound judgment of those who have had it in charge.

For more than a quarter of a century he has been physician of the almshouse of the county, and he ministered to the wants of the unfortunate inmates with the tenderness and care which he would have given to those who dwell in palaces.

The fact is, as physician he recognized no class, no creed, no condition in life, and always responded to the distress call no matter from whom it came.

Surely such an one was indeed "the beloved physician."

Of Dr. White's home life a volume could be written, but we dare not intrude upon its sanctity, its purity, its peacefulness, and yet must be permitted to say that though never blessed with children of his own, there came into that home a little girl of a few summers old who matured into splendid womanhood under that roof-tree, and who gave to the strong man a wealth of affection which must have brightened every dark day, lightened every heavy burden, and soothed every passing sorrow.

She anticipated every wish and want and responded to them as the flower responds to the touch of dew drop.

She heard him, though he did not speak, and he heard her, though he could not hear the voice of thunder.

But in that home every act was a tribute to him, and every thought was centered upon him.

For more than thirty years an humble colored man waited upon him, and standing at his bier said, "the folks of this world kept Dr. White busy, but God has given him rest," and in this thought we who knew and loved him take comfort.

The funeral took place from the Presbyterian Church, on Monday morning, and was conducted by the Rev. H. Tucker Graham, who was assisted by the Rev. H. M. Fugate, of the Baptist Church, and Rev. S. C. Hatcher, D. D., of the Methodist, with the following pallbearers:

Active—H. E. Barrow, George Richardson, W. T. Clark, J. A. Garland, J. R. Martin, H. C. Crute.

During the hours of the services our stores and other places of business were closed.

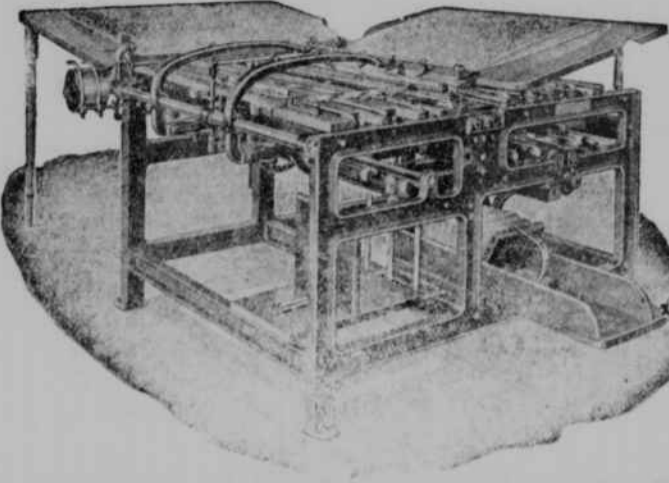

There was a vast outpouring of the people, high and low, rich and poor alike, one of the galleries of the Church building having been reserved for the colored people, who as a class not only respected but loved him as their friend and benefactor.

Rare flowers hid the casket and made the surroundings like a garden. The services were of the simplest nature, just such as this modest man of worth would have dictated and perhaps the largest cortege that ever went from the city of the living to the city of our dead followed the remains to their resting place.

Upon a commanding knoll from which even glimpses of the mountains he loved may be had, we have buried him and beneath a wilderness of blossoms. Miss him? Does the mariner out on dark and stormy seas miss lost chart and compass? Does the bewildered traveller miss the light of guiding star which has been obscured by cloud? Does the absent boy miss the old home? Does the mother miss the buried baby? Good-night, dear old friend, with the sweet hope that we may greet you with the glad good morning on the other and better and brighter shore.

Many people with chronic throat and lung trouble have found comfort and relief in Foley's Honey and Tar as it cures stubborn coughs after other treatment has failed. L. M. Ruggles, Reasnor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet." For sale by all druggists.

Creamery Swing Churn.

TREDWAY, VA., May 21, 1909.

Messrs. H. E. Barrow & Co.—
Dear Sirs: In regard to the Creamery Swing Churn I must say it is the best pattern I have ever seen. I have sold butter to the hotels in your town for four years, have had right much experience in churning. I thought I had a good pattern though I had to churn sometimes for two hours, and now my son, 9 years old, can churn in 30 minutes, besides there is nothing inside to be washed, it is just what a nice churn should be. I think every house wife should have one. During one week's use this churn made 2 pounds more butter than my other churn did during the same length of time.
With best wishes, I am
Your friend,
Mrs. W. A. SOUTHALL.

P. S.—I hope you will have this published in the Farmville Herald. I think it would interest some of its readers especially those interested in dairying.

ADVERTISING FOR SUMMER BOARDERS

IN VIRGINIA'S COUNTRY HOMES.

Many thousands of the Government clerks employed in Washington spend their annual vacation of thirty days at the farm, riverside, or mountain homes of Virginia. They are acquainted with the Old Dominion, or, if not, they desire to know more of the State that is famed for its rural attractions and generous hospitality wherever the English language is spoken.

They are a most desirable class to reach through advertising, and in addition are well paid—receiving twice every month, in currency, one and one-quarter million dollars.

In addition to this class of Washington people there are other thousands, engaged in various business and industrial enterprises, who desire recreation in the summer months.

You can reach these people most economically and effectively through a Want Ad. in at the small cost of 1 cent a word each insertion, or 5 cents per line if ordered for thirty times.

The Washington Herald has the largest morning circulation—by over 10,000—in the District of Columbia, and it is essentially a home circulation. Address communications to
