The April meeting of the Town Council was called to order Tuesday night by Mayor Blanton with the following members present: Messrs. S. W. Watkins, W. P. Gilliam, H. E. Barrow, E. L. Erambert, W. T. Doyno, Walker Scott, W. M. Duvall and Dr. Anderson.

Sergeant Miller reported collections for the month as follows: By real estate $212.25, By personal estate $21.00, By license $7.32, By road tax $134.34, By poor tax $22.40, By electric light $28.21, By fire $5.00, By capitation $5.00, By penalties $7.10, By interest $4.00.

The following bills were read and allowed: W. H. Ewing, surveying $10.00, C. M. Walker & Sons, merchandise $12.00, Ed. Matthews, janitor $4.00, J. H. On motion of Mr. Barrow the owner of a dilapidated chimney on Middle street was ordered to have it removed within the next five days or be subject to the penalty of the town ordinances against nuisances.

On motion of Mr. Doyno the owner of the Randolph hotel building is allowed 30 days in which to put in safe condition the roof to a portion of that structure.

A request from Mr. S. H. Bliss to be allowed to erect some sheds on the Morgan Redd lot, was rejected. Mr. Gilliam was instructed to have a fence erected in front of the colored cemetery at a cost not exceeding $75.00.

Judge Watkins, the town attorney, recommended that the council refund to the former saloon keepers of Farmville the pro rata part of licenses for the year in which they were closed on account of the dispensary law.

Mr. W. H. Ewing, who recently made a survey and defined the lines of the town's corporate limits, explained the results of his work. One important discovery made was that the corporate lines have never been properly extended, and with Mr. Ewing's survey they were widened and the town considerably enlarged.

It will be interesting, perhaps, to know that the town embraces from 375 to 400 acres. The Finance Committee recommended the redemption of the 1904 license taxes. Adopted.

Captain Watkins, chairman of the street committee, submitted for the council's consideration a very lengthy and carefully prepared estimate of what it would cost the town to pave such of the town's streets as he conceived would be best. Fifteen thousand dollars he believed would be all the money necessary for the work.

First at Appomattox.

Differ as we may about the propriety of the inscription upon her monument which was unveiled on last Monday we must all agree that North Carolina will go down to history as the first at Appomattox with a memorial to her dead heroes who once "wore the gray."

The doctrine is not so objectionable when understood by Christians, as when first brought to their view. There is no doubt that the doctrine has been hurt in the house of its friends, even more than among the enemies.

By 11 a. m. the crowd began to gather about the spot and between that hour and 1:30 p. m. spent the time in social converse, pleasant greetings as they reviewed the past, peeped at the monument still unveiled and in watching the band played a lively air concluding of course with the liveliest of all live airs, our own Dixie.

Hon. H. A. London, Chairman of the North Carolina Appomattox Commission, rapped for order, and the Rev. Jas. A. Werton led in prayer. At his close Governor Montague was presented, who in words few but thrilling with eloquence, redolent of the spirit of brotherly love and delivered as only our Montague can, welcomed North Carolina's Governor, citizens of the old North State, Ex-Confederates from our sister State who added so much of glory to Confederate history.

Governor Glenn followed and simple justice compels us to say, and we say it without envy, or jealousy, or any such spirit, that he defended the inscription on that memorial pile with clearness and much force. And in doing so he was as courteous as he was cogent, as polite as he was persuasive.

Prof. Stockard then read the memorial ode, "Last at Appomattox," a short address by Gen. W. P. Roberts and then the unveiling. All hail to North Carolina for inaugurating a monument which we hope will mean the converting of historic Appomattox into a place of national and interstate interest.

The attendance from North Carolina on this memorable day was nothing like so great as we had anticipated and the old Confederate uniforms and flags were conspicuous by their absence. The boys who "wore the gray" were not present either in such numbers as we expected to see, and so far as we can ascertain there were only three present from Virginia who surrendered at Appomattox: Messrs. H. A. and Colin Stokes and Mr. T. Henry Glenn.

President Jarman marched with the student body from depot to monumental site, and so did the following members of the faculty: Messrs. Jones, Sears, Mattoon, Misses Andrews and Harrison, while Commander-in-Chief Cox led the column and gave to it the inspiration of his commanding presence.

Major Venable was there and had an animated but bloodless tilt with a brother who "wore the blue," the twin Rebs Captain Sam and Captain Bob were there still wearing of the gray and stoutly denying that any soldier of any State went farther to the front than did the Virginia soldiers.

The day was a good one, it was good to be there and our hope is that this is but the beginning of "red letter" days in the history of old Appomattox.

Dear Sir: There are these five ways of badness in paint: (1) stuffed-out with chalk, or something like that; (2) barytes, better than chalk, but no covering to it; nobody knows it's there;

(3) benzine in the oil, or water, or other such stuff; (4) two thin—two much liquid, what ever it is for the solid; (5) short measure; Now will you buy by the price per gallon?

What is Sanctification.

A requested statement of the doctrine of sanctification by Evangelist J. W. Hypes, who has been conducting a series of meetings in Farmville for the past two weeks is given below.

We teach that regeneration is the great fundamental doctrine, and upon this is based the doctrine of sanctification that "whosoever is born of God, or is regenerated, doth not commit sin," and "whosoever is born of God overcometh the world."

First—Sanctification is not Absolute perfection. Angelic perfection. Adamic perfection. Freedom from temptation. Deliverance from infirmities. Freedom from intellectual ignorance. Freedom from errors of judgment. Exemptions from trials, afflictions and sufferings.

Second—Nor does it exclude the necessity of a mediator, or involve any radical change in the physical constitution. Third—What sanctification is: Perfect humility. Perfect self denial. Perfect meekness. Perfect patience. Perfect resignation. Perfect faith. Perfect hope. Perfect love.

1. Justification is the birth of the spirit. 2. Restores you to the favor of God. 3. Has to do with sin as an act. 4. Gives you the right to heaven. 5. Is a quickening of the moral sensibilities.

1. Sanctification is the baptism with the Holy Spirit. 2. Restores you to the moral likeness of God. 3. Has to do with sin as a principle. 4. Gives you the fitness for heaven. 5. The crucifixion of the carnal sensibilities.

1. We do not teach sanctification as simultaneous with regeneration. 2. We do not teach that it is obtained by growth. 3. We do not put it off so late as the hour of death. 4. We do not believe it is obtained after death in purgatorial fires. 5. We do teach that it is a work subsistent to regeneration, and obtained by faith, and that it is of God and for the believer.

The fifth is in accord with Scripture, experience, and every creed in Christendom. Lastly, we believe the Bible and teach people to believe it. When the Bible says white, we believe and teach that it means white, and not black. So, when it says be ye holy, for I am holy, we believe that it meant holy, and not unholy.

When the Bible says we shall serve Him in holiness all the days of our life—Luke 1, 7-5—we believe that means while we live, and not after death. May God bless all who read this article thus hurriedly sketched.

girls, accompanied by nine members of the faculty, and four members of the domestic department, went on the excursion to Appomattox, Monday, the tenth.
