Every precaution has been taken and there seem to be no new cases. Worthless Without Moral Sense. Men must learn to discriminate, and that implies a moral sense and an enlightened and disciplined will. Without their failure in the business of life is certain. Masterful natures without moral sense, or, if they have it, disobedient to it, are always weak natures. History gives the record of many such. They are profitable for "instruction in righteousness."

RED CROSS LEADER IS COMING TO NEW ENGLAND NEXT WEEK

DR. FARRAND WILL SPEAK AT PUBLIC MEETINGS IN PORTLAND, BOSTON AND PROVIDENCE—VISIT PRECEDES THIRD ROLL CALL.

Dr. Livingston Farrand, the executive head of the American Red Cross, who has been on a speaking tour of the United States since September 20, in the interest of the Third Red Cross Roll Call, which takes place from November 2 to 11, and of the new Red Cross Health Center plan, will come to New England next week for three days, and will deliver addresses in three cities under the auspices of the New England Division of the organization.

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND, Head of the American Red Cross, Who Will End National-wide Tour in New England Next Week. Dr. Farrand Became the Executive Leader of the Organization last March.

Dr. Farrand will arrive in Boston at 11:55 A. M. on Thursday, October 23, from Cleveland. He will deliver his first address in the New England Division in Portland, Me., at eight o'clock that evening, under the local auspices of the Portland Chapter, James Jackson, Manager of the New England Division, and Cheney C. Jones, Division Director of Civilian Relief, will accompany Dr. Farrand to Portland and will also speak. The meeting will be held in Frye Hall, 76 Spring street, and many Red Cross officers and workers who will be unable to attend the big meeting in Boston will hear Dr. Farrand at Portland. On Friday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock, Dr. Farrand will address some 3000 school teachers of Boston and the vicinity in Tremont Temple, Boston, at a Junior Red Cross meeting of the Boston Metropolitan Chapter. A big Division mass meeting will be held in Symphony Hall, Boston, on Friday evening at eight o'clock, with Dr. Farrand as the principal speaker. It is hoped that Col. James H. Perkins, former Red Cross Commissioner to Europe, will also speak. Mr. Jackson will preside. Dr. Farrand's final appearance in the Division will be in Providence, R. I., where he will speak at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at a meeting arranged by the Providence Chapter in Memorial Hall, and there will also be addresses by Mr. Jackson and Mr. Jones. From Providence Dr. Farrand will return to Washington to assume general direction of the Roll Call campaign for members and funds—principally for members. His visit to the New England Division will do much to stimulate the campaign forces, which are planning to put New England's Red Cross membership away over its present total of a million and a half. All the meetings at which Dr. Farrand speaks will be public, and there will be no tickets of admission. The people are urged to attend them.

EASIER NOW THAN LATER

It is easier to break up a cold or check a cough now than it will be later. Persistent bronchial coughs that "hang on" all winter pave the way for serious throat and lung diseases. L. W. Day of Danvers, Vt., Detroit, Mich., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar relieves me of bronchitis very quickly. I hope never to have it again." This reliable family remedy cures all the relief of coughs, colds, croup, hoarseness, etc., contains no opiates. Children like it.—Sold everywhere.

AN OPPORTUNITY ROOM

Something New to Be Installed in North Troy School.

A reorganization is to be tried out in the North Troy school, which, it is hoped, will be of great value to the school. This organization will consist of the installation of what will be called an Opportunity Room. It is a well known fact that in every school there are pupils who do not belong exactly in the grade in which they are placed. Some are too quick for the grade and could go ahead faster, while others are behind, either from sickness, poor eyesight, or other similar causes. In the case of the extra bright child, it is a distinct hardship to keep him back with the grade, as often his back is not hard enough to be interesting. In addition, every year which he can save in getting through school means an extra year of earning ability after he gets out. The retarded pupils, on the other hand, are trying to do work which they do not understand, because they have lost some of the earlier work. It is the purpose of the Opportunity Room to help relieve both of these conditions. The detail of carrying out this plan is as follows: The rooms will be so arranged that one of the regular teachers will be placed in charge of the Opportunity room. This can be done by equalizing the numbers of pupils in the other rooms, and in fact will give two teachers fewer pupils than they now have. In this way there will be no extra expense. A list has been made of pupils who would probably profit by being placed in the Opportunity room. These pupils are of the two types mentioned above. The brighter and more advanced pupils will be coached up ahead of their regular grade and as soon as possible will be put back into a regular grade one year advanced. The pupils who are retarded will be given help as their cases need. A pupil who has difficulty in seeing will be carried along in the regular work but the teacher will see that he understands the little things that a pupil with good eyesight would be able to pick up for himself. A pupil who needs to travel a little slower than the regular grade will be allowed to do so, but no one will be allowed to do less than his best. As the best work can not be done in such a room with a large number of pupils, the number in the room at any one time will be limited to 25. The pupils first to go in this room will be selected from the waiting list by means of a mental examination. Only pupils capable of profiting by the special work will be admitted. This means that only pupils of superior mental ability will be allowed to attempt to skip a grade, and that pupils who are behind simply because they are lazy will not be admitted. However, it is probable that some cases will escape our notice unless called to our attention, so it is urged that parents cooperate by talking to the superintendent or teacher about their children. If your child is one, who in our opinion can not profit by the room we will say so frankly, while on the other hand, if he shows need of this work we will place him on the waiting list. Such a room can only succeed by the working together of children, parents, teacher and superintendent. It is urged that everyone take a personal interest in this room, and that suggestions and criticisms be made to those in charge.

Revenge may be sweet, but its sweetness doesn't last. Eventually it turns to gall and wormwood.
