Frank W. Agan
Who He Is

Frank W. Agan was born in Plymouth, Vt., December 10th, 1829, the son of John and Amanda Henry Agan. He left Plymouth with his folks when he was two years old and went to school in Ludlow.

He graduated from Black River academy and went to work in the woolen mills of Ludlow, in one of the plants which he now owns, and learned the business, being advanced to an overseer's position and becoming a chemist and dyeing expert.

While in the dyeing department he invented a cleanser for wool that was widely and successfully used. Later in life, he secured basic patents on an adding machine and a combination vacuum cleaner and sweeper, which he later disposed of.

A Self-Made Man.
He went to Gilsum, N. H., for three years, but returned to Ludlow in 1859 and built the plant for treating wool waste or shoddy, which he owned and managed until 1919. He bought an interest in the Verd Mont mill, just below Ludlow on the Black river, and managed that property for about 18 years. Later he acquired an interest in the Ludlow woolen mill, which he still owns and operates.

The Ludlow mill, which was an old-fashioned plant, he equipped in modern fashion, so that both the "old mill" and the Verd Mont are now successful, efficient properties.
Frank W. Agan represented Ludlow in the legislature of 1904, being chairman of the committee on manufacturers and a member of the committee on temperance and the general committee. He has taken an active and personal interest in all town and village activities and in 1902 devoted much time and energy to the local campaign as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

He came into the present campaign at the suggestion of his fellow-townsmen in Ludlow, 400 of whom organized an Agan club under the auspices of which his entire campaign is being directed.
Mr. Agan has no paid campaign manager, no publicity director, no paid workers in any part of the state. His campaign expenses are being handled by the local officers of his club, and the books are open for inspection at any time.

His platform is the shortest on record and his campaign slogan is expressed in the following words:—
"For the present, I intend to advocate the return of their personal rights to all the people of Vermont. I believe they are capable of self-government."

Confronted by a demand for the establishment of a slush fund and a paid organization of hired helpers, Mr. Agan said recently:—
"Not one paid worker, solicitor or canvasser will be employed by me in any county of the state. I was surprised to learn that some of my competitors already have made such arrangements which are clearly in violation of the law of the state."

Frank W. Agan is conducting a clean-cut, open and above-board campaign and we believe in his platform and his methods.

Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Harvard and of Union Theological Seminary. After teaching and preaching he went to Olivet college in Michigan, where he became its president.

The saw-mill at Hardwick belonging to Fred LeClair, was completely destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. The mill was ablaze when discovered and how the fire originated is unknown. Very little lumber was damaged. The loss is estimated at $5,000 and $2,000 insurance was carried on the property. The mill was in operation and was about to begin on a good sized order of dressed lumber. Mr. LeClair expects to rebuild at once.

In an attempt to kill a vicious dog, George Clough, aged 28, a farmer residing two miles north of East Barre, on the Connecticut river, fatally injured himself. Mr. Clough took the dog, a coach dog, out of the house at 6 o'clock and carried a shotgun. As he tried to turn the weapon on the animal, the dog sprang at Mr. Clough, whereupon the man used the weapon as a club, striking the dog with the butt. The weapon was discharged, the shot entering the man's bowels and inflicting the mortal wound.

Five boys were apprehended and brought into St. Johnsbury municipal court yesterday charged with taking and operating an automobile without the owner's consent. Several cars have been missed recently but have later been found outside the village and this week police rounded up five boys between the ages of 14 and 18 who admitted that they had committed the offense, not realizing the seriousness of their adventure. They were all placed under the care of the state department of charities and probation and their names will not be made public. They were each ordered to pay a fine of $50 with additional costs of $10.35. One-half of the fine was suspended and they were told they must earn the balance of the money themselves.

Essex County Judge Indited is Rumor

That a side judge of Essex county court, had been indicted by the federal grand jury charged with smuggling booze into this country from Canada, is rumored. No arrest is reported but the rumor of the indictment has caused a widespread sensation.

It is understood that customs agents from Canaan and Beecher Falls decended upon the farmhouse of Assistant Judge A. P. Richardson near Canaan village in March, and made a search. They are said to have found 75 quarts of Canadian booze secreted there. When the customs man was asked how the officials got a tip that booze had been smuggled across the line, he replied that that was one of their secrets.

Mr. Richardson was not arrested nor taken before a United States commissioner at that time because, it was explained, it was known he would be on hand in case he was ever wanted.

Only in cases where the officers feel that the man will disappear is the man taken before Commissioner Clary at Newport and bound over. There has been much smuggling across the border the past few months and some of the men caught with the goods have been from New Hampshire, notably from Berlin, not far from the dividing line.

Mr. Richardson, who is said to have brought in the liquor by automobile, is a well-to-do farmer living on a good farm. He is married. Another farmer, living on Canaan Hill, near that village, was recently taken before Commissioner Clary at Newport after his place was searched. The customs men, who are said to have got their tip in this case that liquor was to be had there from a rumor afloat, found between 40 and 50 bottles of the forbidden stuff. Prohibition officers from New Hampshire were the instruments of discovery in the latter case.

Where the Hood's Milk Dollar Went in 1919

HOOD'S SERVICE To Farmers and Consumers

H. P. Hood & Sons as an organization is a natural evolution of economy and efficiency, for it acts as a direct channel of distribution from producer to consumer.
On one side are thousands of small and large milk producers searching for a market for their product. On the other side are millions of consumers with an average consumption of about one-third of a quart of milk per person per day.
H. P. Hood & Sons buy their milk direct from the producer and sell it direct to the consumer, and are continually striving to do this as economically as possible.
No other food products or living essentials are marketed with the source of supply linked so closely to the consumer. Speculation in the fluid milk business is an impossibility.
For delivering bottles of Hood's Milk to the consumer in 1919 the compensation was about 1% of sales.

Some of the Items of Expense to be Met

- Country Expenses
1. Buying milk and inspection of dairies.
2. Maintaining and operating Chemical and Bacteriological Laboratories.
3. Station care. Testing, weighing and carefully icing milk for transportation.
4. Transportation of milk from City Railroad Terminals to Pasteurizing Plants.
5. Furnishing containers and stopples.
6. Washing and sterilizing cans and stopples.
7. Keeping books and furnishing office supplies.
8. Loss through surplus and shrinkage.
- City Expenses
1. Maintaining and operating trucks, wagons, horses, harness, etc.
2. Maintaining and operating model sanitary plants.
3. Perfectly Pasteurizing the milk - for absolute safety.
4. Furnishing countless glass jars for unit delivery.
5. Washing and sterilizing jars.
6. Furnishing refrigeration and ice to keep the milk cold.
- Labor in City
1. Hiring and training and wages for an organization of foremen, salesmen and helpers to sell and deliver to the public a good, clean, pure, safe milk, the product of upwards of 3000 producers.
- Administrative Expense
1. Advertising Hood's Milk to the public, thereby creating good will and increasing the volume of business. Only by the volume of its business is H. P. Hood & Sons able to maintain its service.
2. Officers' and executives' salaries-for services rendered.
3. The constantly arising miscellaneous items of general business.

There are specialists in all professions and business. These specialists are consulted and paid their fee because in the light of knowledge and experience they are enabled to offer their clients a service that will save their clients money to an amount greater than the fee charged.
With nearly three-quarters of a century of continuous service as the backbone of experience and efficiency, H. P. Hood & Sons believe themselves justified in claiming to be dairy experts and specialists.
We believe 1% on its sales of milk is not an excessive compensation for the service rendered to both farmers and consumers by H. P. Hood & Sons.
