

VISITORS FAR OUTPLAYED

Hanover Independents Defeated by Barre A. C., 9 to 2

MAKING A FINE EXHIBITION

Davidson Held the Collegians Safely After the First Inning and the Locals Connected with Weare's Delivery in Savage Fashion.

With two men down in the opening inning of the final game of the series between Charles H. Dudley's Hanover Independents and the Barre Athletic club, the collegians got to Davidson and pounded out three hits, aided by a base on balls, which resulted in their two tallies in a 9 to 2 defeat. Davidson then struck his gait and moved his opponents down in a manner that pleased over four hundred admirers of the Barre team.

Weare, who held the local team to a six-inning tie in the afternoon game Memorial day, was sent to the firing line by the sporting goods man. He was not so effective as he was on his initial appearance. The Barre club denied his services with viciousness when his mound runs. He had an excellent curve, but did not have the necessary steam to check swatters of the calibre of the Barre club.

The strain of the last three games played by the teams told on the players, who seemed to have lost their accustomed snap. The Barre club fielded cleanly, only having one error, while the New Hampshire bunch played loose when not at bat. W. Johnston, Barre's star third-sacker, who is the most consistent player on the team, turned in a spotless fielding score at the end of the game. The old Spaulding man accepted nine chances without a slip-up. He made eight assists, many of which were scooped up on the run. Taplin was sent behind the bat in the fifth inning, relieving Fowle, whose left hand was badly swollen, after catching Malcolm the day before. The elongated East Barre boy found no difficulty in holding the Barre twirler.

Nute, Tongway and Davidson were the leaders in the afternoon's hitting. The former slammed out three safeties and the last two connected for two each. Roland, Dudley's third baseman, was the only man who managed to fathom the curves of the local moundman. He sent out two clean drives.

With two out in the initial round, Roland hit safely to left and advanced to second when Bernstein was passed. Niles prodded to right, and Roland counted. Bernstein made third on the play and Niles the middle station. Plummer sent the big first baseman in with a neat hit to left. Davidson tightened and fanned Norris.

Tongway reached the initial sack in the second on Roland's blunder, took second on the pitcher's blind attempt to catch him napping, and slipped to third when Fowle hit to left. Both runners crossed the threshold on their slabster's two-bagger over left field fence. Nute scored his pitcher on a clean drive to the fence.

In the third, R. Johnston rapped out a safe one to left, swiped second and wormed to third on a fielder's choice. McKenzie was passed. Tongway came along with a timely hit over second, R. Johnston and Wright tallying. Fowle was safe on the shortstop's error. Mac terminated at the plate on Davidson's fielder's choice. The Barre team now assumed a commanding lead and glided along the rest of the distance without danger, augmenting their score by two more counts. The score:

has a powerful arm and an accurate throw. The local team pulled off as fast a double play in the fourth inning as has been seen here for some time. W. Johnston was the starter, Stuart the mediator, and Wright completed the play. Plummer was on first when Norris rapped a grounder to W. Johnston.

Roland played a fine game at third for the visitors. He was the strongest man with the club on the Hanover aggregation. He hit safely in the three games. Bill's Start had an off day at the bat. The Spaulding slugger succumbed to the curves of Weare four out of five times. Probably Bill's mind was wandering to some of the finals that he has to undergo this week.

The rejuvenated "Bob" Wright, many times a comeback, whom the judges of the high court of baseball have proscribed from the ranks of the national game many times to give way to the younger element in this city, was out in uniform Saturday. His playing was a revelation to the spectators. The old man accepted eighteen chances without a slip-up. At the bat, although out of practice, he knocked out one safe hit, being robbed of another.

In the fifth round, Alex. McKenzie came around with the best fielding stunt of the game. Roland landed on one of Davidson's shots and sent it on a line for deep center field. Mac started back with the crack of the bat and pulled the ball down from over his shoulder. The catch was as pretty a one as has been seen on the campus this season.

POOR JUDGMENT ON BASES

Manchester College Team Also Bunched Hits Off Weaver—Star Catch Made by Left-fielder Bottigi of the Locals.

Inability to connect with Pomerlean's southpaw slants when hits were badly needed and reckless base running lost the Italian A. C. a 3 to 2 game to St. Anselm's college of Manchester, N. H., at the Berlin street grounds Saturday afternoon. It was one of the best games of the season, snappily played and with features enough to keep the interest of the fair-creed crowd of enthusiasts. In fact, it was one of the few games that have furnished an argument for the fast home bunch.

Weaver was on the mound for the I. A. C. and was touched up for his safe swats, the hits being bunched by the collegians in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings; but otherwise the home slinger was strong. He was given splendid support by his teammates, one catch of Bottigi in particular being a hair-raiser. The catch came in the fifth, when the visitors were getting to Weaver, three safe raps having been made, one run having been scored, another just nipped at the plate and another in prospect, with the runner on second. Holcomb was up, and he hit a short fly to left. Bottigi started with the crack of the bat, and seeing that he was likely to lose the ball he gave a dive just as it was striking the ground, scooping it up and rolling on his neck but still clinging to the ball.

Both teams had chances to score early. In the first inning Weaver and Comoli singled with two down, only to be left when Solini struck out. Again in the second Giacuzzi drew a pass and Bottigi was hit by the ball, and they worked a double steal aided by dummy work on the part of the visitors; but there they were left, as Williams fled to left and Tonazzi hit into a double play, driving the ball at the shortstop, who hurled to third.

The third was another chapter of lost opportunities for the locals, as, with one down, Calagni was treated kindly, being sent to first on a free ticket, stealing second when the collegians were taking a nap and going to third when the pitcher had a brainstorm and tossed the ball at Harry as he perched on the second bag. Calagni ducked the throw and scooted for third. Pomerlean's brainstorm continued when he passed Weaver; but he revived enough to send Comoli and Solini back to the bench on measly little pokes in front of the plate. St. Anselm's was dangerous in the second, when they clustered two singles, but Weaver tightened and closed the inning. A fielder's choice, a pass and a single gave the visitors their first tally in the fourth, Hagerty crossing the pan. Singles by Harris, Fish and Pomerlean were mixed with a sacrifice by McCarthy in the fifth and gave the visitors one more tally, Harris being caught at the plate on Solini's leave before Fish registered on Pomerlean's single-sacker. It was then that Bottigi filled the breach with his sensational catch.

The Italians got back one of the two runs in the same inning. Tonazzi singled over third base and Davidi dropped another into centerfield. On the drive Tonazzi went tearing around the bases and got nipped at third on the centerfielder's heave. Davidi going to second. At this point Hagerty generously dropped Calagni's aerial and the first baseman fumbled Weaver's little offering down the first base line, to the latter misplay enabling Davidi to cross the pan. Calagni tried to score on the same misplay and was snuffed out, and Comoli went out to third.

The college boys capped the winning tally in the sixth on Hagerty's single. Derby's sacrifice and Dunn's safety registered on Pomerlean's single-sacker. It was then that Bottigi filled the breach with his sensational catch. The college boys capped the winning tally in the sixth on Hagerty's single. Derby's sacrifice and Dunn's safety registered on Pomerlean's single-sacker. It was then that Bottigi filled the breach with his sensational catch.

From the fifth to the eighth, the locals went up against a solid defense; but the eighth showed promise when Weaver dropped one into right field, which Hagerty misjudged, and the runner went to second on Comoli's out, third to first. Solini drew a pass, but the best Giacuzzi could do was to roll one to second, who touched the base for a force-out, and the third out of the inning.

With the score 3 to 1 against them, there looked like a fighting chance when Bottigi started the ninth with a safety, and Williams was safe when his grounder got mowed up with Bottigi and the second baseman. Tonazzi's fly to right field was dropped, and Bottigi, who had held up on second to avoid a double play, was forced at third on a very close decision. Davidi fanned, but Comoli staged a pass. Weaver, at this critical stage, poled out his third safety, and it was easy scoring for Williams. Tonazzi took a fighting chance to tie up the score on the same play and was thrown out at the plate, thus making a sensational finish to an interesting contest. The score:

Blessings on Your Head. Many men have found out to the advantage of their pocket book that a Panama Hat is about the least expensive luxury-comfort that money can buy.

Costs a little more in the beginning, but wears like iron and feels like a feather.

Your head keeps cool and you forget you wear a hat, if it is a light, airy Panama of the sort you find here.

Wear it several seasons and still it's good; bang it around and it don't seem to mind it. In short, it's the hat for comfort.

When comfort of this kind can be bought for $4 and up, WHY HESITATE?

opened, and after the miserable showing made on Memorial day decided to withdraw. Baseball men at Indianapolis are negotiating for the Reading franchise and hope to have their city represented in the organization.

It looks at though the Pittsburg team received the big end of the Hoffman, Leach, Liefeld, Cole swap. The Pittsburg club has been scouting for a first baseman and will undoubtedly not be surprised about Hoffman covering the initial corner. Cole, who has been a sensation in the National league for the past few years, has a lot of good baseball in him yet. As a pitcher Liefeld is nearly all in and the same can be said of Leach as an outfielder.

Many of the papers outside of New York look on McGraw's Giants with scorn. One paper said that if Mathewson had landed ten straight games this year there would have been more talk about it than was made about the Titanic disaster. And they go farther to say that there has been a little chatter made about Marquard, who has not allowed a single club in the league to outpoint him.

Sam Felton, the husky pitcher of the Harvard baseball nine, who has been given a thorough try-out by his coach, is rapidly rounding into form for the game with Yale. On Memorial day he twirled an excellent game against Penn that aroused the hopes of the crimson followers.
