LA FRANCE SHOP

Sets of three pairs of LA FRANCE "Style-Setting" shoes seem to be a popular idea this season.

A pair of Colonials, Boots and Oxfords, complete the Summer shoe schedule in a most effective way.

No. 814 is a natty pump in Sterling Patent Col. welt, Cuban heel. No. 714 corresponds in Gun Metal.

WAITSFIELD.

Miss Blake of Aintab, Turkey, gave a highly interesting talk at the Congregational church Sunday.

Garth Bingham is home from Montreal and St. Johns.

Miss Louise Douglass, who has spent the winter with Mrs. George Pierce in Ipswich, has opened her house in the village for the summer.

Theron Niell went Sunday to Norwich, at J. D. Thompson's.

Miss Lydia Bisbee is confined to her home by illness, a general breakdown, and is unable to finish her school year.

The body of Ezekiel Drew, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. R. Bisbee, was taken Saturday to Tunbridge for burial.

The ball game on Saturday between Waitsfield town and high school teams resulted in a score of 15 to 3 in favor of the town team.

Pre-Memorial day exercises were held Friday in Library hall to a crowded house. Union exercises by pupils from all the schools in town, consisting of songs, readings, flag drills, speeches by Rev. W. A. Remond and Mr. Meluron, Mr. Bushnell, Mr. Fisk, and Mr. McAllister comprised the program.

Hon. Charles A. Plumley of Northfield was the orator of the day at the Memorial day exercises in I. O. O. F. hall on Saturday. The Waitsfield band escorted a company of 16 veterans to the hall. The school children rendered fitting and appropriate recitations, songs and drills, and the exercises were attended by large numbers coming from Warren, Fayston, Waterbury, Montpelier, and vicinity.

Raymond Baird is home from White River Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thompson of Norwich were guests in town over Memorial day.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown of Burlington spent Memorial day at A. W. Bigelow's.

The ladies of the Home circle cleared over $20 at their ice cream and cake sale on Memorial day.

Principal Franklin Williams of the high school is to remain another year. Sixty-two pupils have taken the entrance examinations to the high school and there is some talk in town of raising a new high school building in the school campus.

One of the most interesting lights thrown on last week's work in the National league was the spurt of old Homer Wagner on the ladder. He gained about 25 points and is now hitting for .330, one of the best hitters in the league. Dalton of the Brooklyn club is the real leader with .357. Gibson of Pittsburgh and Bresnahan of the Cubs, both mainstay catchers, follow in the order mentioned. Boston has not a man in the .300 class.

Manager Jimmy Callahan is very much pleased with the work of young Alcock, who has been filling third base since Harry Lord deserted the team. Alcock played for several years in the Southern Atlantic and Southern leagues, where he was regarded as a promising player. He was obliged to quit the game for a season or two when he contracted malaria. When he regained his strength he joined the Indianapolis Federals. Having but little confidence in the Federals, he accepted the terms of the White Sox this spring.

While playing baseball with a number of companions at Goddard campus Saturday afternoon young Leonard Thompson, a student at the seminary, fell and sustained a bad sprain of the left arm. The death of Marion Irene Baldwin, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Baldwin of Nelson street, occurred Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, death following an illness of two months. Besides her parents, the child leaves a younger sister, Dorothy. The little girl would have been six years old had she lived until June 30. Funeral services were held at the house this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Newell, pastor of the Hedden Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in the family lot at Elmwood.

Have followed closely in the wake of a Barre runaway as it made its way to Intercity park Saturday afternoon. The car was occupied by Delos Merlo and Joseph Stumpf, a cinematograph man, and it was when the machine was nearing the park that a part of the steering gear refused to respond. Mr. Stumpf was at the wheel and he had no other alternative than to lay off the car on the meadow at the side of the highway. In emerging from a small ditch that borders the road, the car turned half-turtle. The Merlo boy was tossed into the air and deposited on a pile of stones a few yards away. Driver Stumpf managed to retain his seat until he could shut off the power. His companion suffered a bad scalp wound, but was able to get out of doors to-day.

Friends in Barre of Ray P. McGrath will be interested to learn of his promotion to the position of superintendent of the Pacific coast branches of the Sullivan Machinery Co. He will be remembered here as a former local representative of the Sullivan Machinery Co., coming to Barre from Dartmouth college and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Three years ago he was promoted to a position in the Boston office of the company. And let it be repeated that Vermont will not be going about her business correctly until the budget is adopted. If such a result should come, the present revelation will be worth while; if not, it will be of no more lasting consequence than a drop in the bucket.—St. Albans Messenger.

The hammer throwing of the New England meet on Saturday was distinctly a Maine victory. The University of Maine won first honors, Colby and Bowdoin taking the other positions.

The Italian Athletic club second baseball team met defeat in a doubleheader at Graniteville on Memorial day at the hands of the Graniteville A. A. The forenoon game was won by Graniteville 6 to 1, while the afternoon game resulted 11 to 8. In the first game the playing of the Barre lads was helped somewhat by the appearance of Paul Scampini. Scampini was on the mound and never displayed better form in his career. With ordinary fielding behind him, the game would have been won handily by the Barre lads. He held the Graniteville sluggers to three weak hits and in the meantime fanned 16 batters. It was through errors that Graniteville won the game. In the first game Scampini found an opponent in Beaton, the Websterville lad. Clarke pitched five innings of the afternoon game for the Italians, giving way to Pelli. The game developed into a slugfest. Finnegan pitched for Graniteville.

Jacob A. Riis.

By virtue of tireless interest in helping to better the condition of the poor in New York, whose hardships he knew at first hand, Jacob Riis came to be thought of as a sort of permanent marshal in such work. Never officious, he was always a leader from sheer enthusiasm and generosity. His first failures discouraged him no more than his own early privations; he kept at it because he was not in him to stop, and he lived to see his favorite idea of playgrounds for poor children recognized fully as a public necessity and realized in part, at least. But if the playgrounds and small parks were his most prominent idea, nothing was uninteresting to him which aimed toward the rooting out of the slum and of slum conditions. His early books, "How the Other Half Lives" and "The Children of the Poor" have exerted an immeasurable influence for good.

His friendship with Theodore Roosevelt was one of the great pleasures and opportunities of his life. He was a police reporter at the old headquarters when he first met Mr. Roosevelt through the latter's frankly expressed wish to help in the work for the poor. When Mr. Roosevelt became police commissioner he looked upon Mr. Riis as a trusted counsellor. And later he took occasion to dub Mr. Riis "the most useful citizen of New York"—a title of honor which nobody ever grudging him. He accomplished great things for his wards, but his dream of greater ones. His heart's desire for years was to see Blackwell's island transformed into a public playground and recreation center; a dream not realized, but of strong appeal to many citizens of this big town.

His personality was so humanly engaging that his friends were unnumbered. He was "Jake Riis" all his life to tens of thousands of people, of all sorts and conditions, all ages and persuasions. The high degree of appreciation his work won him never spoiled his simplicity of heart. His connection with this newspaper lasted through many years and is deeply valued in memory. He was a brave, useful citizen, who did more good for his fellowmen than lies in the fate of most persons. He never stopped working and his works do follow him. An unselfish man of luminous character, his life stands as a shining example of noble citizenship at all times and wherever his lot was cast.—New York Evening Sun.

MEMORIAL PRESENTED TO TOWN

At Exercises Held in Waterbury Before Large Crowd.

Waterbury, June 1.—Memorial day was a very interesting day in Waterbury from every point of view. Music throughout the day by the Moretown Military band, under the leadership of Stanley Buzzell, was nicely rendered. In the morning the members of Dillingham post, G. A. R., met at their rooms and, escorted by the band, marched to the cemetery, where the soldiers' graves were decorated. Rain interfered somewhat in the morning, but the sky cleared in the afternoon and the large crowds were enabled to enjoy to the utmost the exercises on the schoolhouse grounds.

At 1:30, Dillingham post, the Ezra Stetson post and all visiting soldiers met at the local post room. Headed by the band, the procession then formed. The Woodmen carried a large flag, under which the order orders marched as they neared the grounds. Large numbers of Mentor lodge, I. O. O. F., followed. Then came the old soldiers, members of the Women's Relief corps, members of Marquis Lafayette chapter, D. A. R., and delegations from Queen Esther chapter, O. E. S., Emerald Rebekah lodge, No. 33, the Hypatia and Plerian clubs. Numbers of school children followed with their flags.

In front of the school building, a large platform was erected, nicely decorated with bunting and flags. From this streamers went to the monument, which was veiled with flags and upon which a laurel wreath was placed. As the people were seated, General William Henry of Burlington, who was master of ceremonies, expressed a few fitting words regarding the donor and the gift. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. E. Douglass, a selection was rendered by the band and the monument was unveiled by members of the Henry family—Miss Leila Stanley, Miss Gladys Henry and Fred B. Henry, Jr., while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner." General Henry, then, in a feeling manner, presented the monument to the town and a fitting acceptance was made by C. C. Robinson, chairman of the board of selectmen. There was another selection by the band and then Hon. William P. Dillingham, United States senator, was presented to his home people to perform what he called "a labor of love," in giving the address at this time. His services had been requested by Mr. Henry. They were boys of the same generation and every name on the monument was engraved on his memory.

Mr. Dillingham spoke of the qualities which our ancestors, who came from the old country, had. The best elements were in the New England settlers. They were intelligent as well as virtuous, and started schools at public expense, a system now universally adopted. It was by this stock that Vermont was settled and Waterbury had its share. Did the stock hold good? This is answered in part by the good work of the men who went to the front. Mr. Dillingham exhibited a paper which had been in his possession 50 years, but which he had never before publicly shown. This gave the names of the soldiers who very quickly answered the call. Tribute was paid General Wells, General Henry and Dr. Henry Jones, who had an army of 50,000 wounded men. He then spoke much of the donor, of his interest in his home town, and of his generous and patriotic act. He said this monument was not simply given to honor the names of those men whose names are inscribed thereon, but to teach patriotism and loyalty to those of the younger generations.

At the close of this scholarly and interesting address, all joined in the singing of "America" and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. L. Boicourt. Members of the Henry family present beside those assisting in the unveiling of the monument were Mrs. Frank Sylvester Henry of New York City, Mrs. Fred B. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Henry of Cleveland, O., Robert Henry of Waltham, Mass., and Mrs. Annette Spencer of this town.

After the showing of young Charlie Rice the Maine sprinter, in both the 100-yard and furlong events at Harvard on Saturday, his admirers are placing more confidence than ever in the youngster. His superiority over the other sprinters was unquestioned. He was timed in close to record time for the events.

SPORTING NOTES.

Montpelier high school made a very creditable showing in the Vermont interscholastic field and truck meet at Burlington on Saturday, finishing fourth.

The chief contributors to their score getting were Laird and Hancock, both football players.

Sam Crawford and Joe Jackson are tied at .345 for the highest batting honors of the American league. Jack Barry of the Mackmen is next with .333. Ty Cobb still rests at .324. Tris Speaker, the Boston star, is slowly gaining. He now stands at .297. He will be one of the chosen hitters within another week.

Eddie Ainsmith is expected to be back in the game within 10 days. Ainsmith fractured his wrist some time ago and it has been slowly mending. He works daily in the outfield to keep in condition. During his absence the Senators miss him much in the race for top honors, as the strain is too much on Johnny Henry.

Mike Donlin showed the New York fans that he still has a little baseball left in his old bones. Mike was called on for a pinch hitter in the Chicago game on Wednesday and responded with a home run with men on bases. Jim Thorpe, the Indian, uncorked a two-base hit that same day as a pinch hitter.
