Holt; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Tilden; director of missionary work, Mrs. J. W. Barnett; director of church work, Mrs. D. W. McDonald.

At the H. M. Farnham auction sale of horses and other property in Montpelier to-morrow will be consigned one of the best brood mares in the country—Solferino, standard bred, with a mark of 2:23 1/2; trial 2:14, half in 1:04. She is the dam of Trott of Gold, who as a two-year-old clothed in 2:25, and is also the dam of other famous trotters. This mare is 11 years old, brown in color, stands 15-5. She is clever and one of the best of mothers. Her sire was Strea Champions. An extra chance to purchase a high-bred brood mare. C. F. Smith, auctioneer.

Last evening about 20 friends and former schoolmates of Leroy W. Carroll gathered to welcome him home for the holiday and also tendered him a surprise to remind him of his 15th birthday anniversary. He came yesterday from his studies at Sacred Heart college for a 10 days' visit with his parents on North Main street. During the evening Donald Buchanan, in behalf of the company, presented the host a gold watch and ring. Mr. Carroll was rather undecided what to say, but was soon able to respond and thank them all and bid them enjoy themselves. The evening was passed with singing, music and games, with refreshments of sandwiches, cake and ice cream. They all left wishing their young host many such happy birthday days to come.

In the east window of the Quarry Savings bank an interesting picture of the old Barre academy and dormitory is being exhibited. Apparently the picture was taken from a steel engraving made during the hey-day of the school's usefulness. The dormitory shown in the plate was located between the residence of Mrs. Boyce and the site of the Burns monument. It was the first dormitory built in connection with the academy and was later demolished to make way for a more adequate building. Just how old the picture is, Archie W. Taft, the owner, does not know. He found it in a collection of antiques at his home and believes that it came originally from a catalogue or prospectus of the school, probably issued in the days when the academy was attracting students from all corners of northern New England. When it came to light the picture was sore and yellow with age, but Mr. Taft was able to restore much of its former appearance.

Now that winter's chilling touch has put a crimp in the practice of using North Main and Washington streets as a leading alley for automobiles, drivers a foot longer have supplanted the motor car with light gigs and most any day in the afternoon one can witness a fast horse using the main thoroughfare as a speedway. Devious delight in sporting up the street in order to allow prospective purchasers to give their steeds the "once over" while in action, the police say, and some very wrought-up pedestrians have not hesitated long in bringing their complaints to the authorities.

Yesterday afternoon an elderly woman nearly slipped in a narrow aisle at the Prospect street intersection of South Main street. She escaped injury, but the driver of the horse was held up by an officer and threatened with arrest should he continue his practice of speeding.

Card of Thanks.
We wish to thank most sincerely all our many friends and neighbors for their kind gifts, postcards, fruit, etc., tendered us during our sickness. Most especially we thank North Barre grocers and Lathrop's, Vigors & Wilson for their gifts.
Lucas B. Lund and family.

Notice to Shop Stewards.
The general meeting of the Barre Storekeepers' Association will be held on Thursday evening, Dec. 31, and will be held at 7:30 o'clock, Friday, Jan. 1.

Only 9 Days More of Our Annual Clearance Sale!

This sale comes at a time when everyone is able to get some of the many extra good values that we offer. This is not a sale where we pick out the merchandise that has not seemed to move, or where the styles have changed, so the real value has been lost, but we give you a chance to pick from our whole stock anything you most need.

We do this partly to reduce our stock before inventory, and in part to get our stock down on a working basis. In our ever-increasing business, we are a little apt to overbuy on some lines. While this sale means a loss to us, it gets our stock in shape for our spring's business, which is soon upon us. We mention below only a few of the many bargains offered.

Ladies' House Dresses

During our Christmas Sale, the demand for House Dresses seemed to be for the dark colors. This leaves us with a lot of medium and light colors. These we are putting on one table at prices to clean them up at once.

These are House Dresses that are made from the best quality Percales and Gingham, in quantities that sold at from $1.50 to $3.00.
