Enjoyable Christmas Concert by Seminary Girls.

The Christmas concert given at Sage chapel Sunday evening was certainly enjoyed by all. The concert was by the Estey chorus and vesper choir with two selections by the entire seminary. Prof. N. P. Gilla has been drilling the girls for this concert but Miss Lightener directed Sunday night. The first and last numbers were especially beautiful, the processional and recessional given by about 100 girls in surplice gowns. The carols were from the Old English, German, French and Bohemian Christmas carols of centuries ago, very quaint and beautiful. Miss Parmenter presided at the organ and Miss Tillinghast gave several organ selections at the close. W. R. Moody gave a short address on The Meaning of Christ's Advent. Rev. H. A. Bridgman and A. G. Moody also assisted in the service and Principal Dickenson was on the platform. Many from the town attended as there was no service at the church. Hemlock trees and poinsettia flowers made an attractive decoration for the chapel.

The seminary closed yesterday until Jan. 3. The girls that remain will be at Henry Moore cottage. Christmas day will be spent at Mt. Hermon where Mr. Moody has planned to give the girls and boys who could not go home a merry Christmas.

The Christmas celebration for the children will be held in both the Congregational and Unitarian churches tonight. Remember the Christmas concert by the children in the Congregational church Sunday night.

Miss Beatrice Gair, secretary of the New England Vacation Bible School of Boston, was at the seminary last Friday and spoke to the students, endeavoring to interest them in the school and also to receive applications for teachers.

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Edith A. Barber and Herbert Nelson Wright, in Worcester, Saturday, Dec. 16. Miss Barber was a successful teacher of drawing here for several years and has many friends here. She has been very successful in her work. At the time of her marriage she was director of drawing in all the public schools of Newport, R. I., besides having private pupils among the wealthy summer people.

The grange will hold its meeting Dec. 26. Reports of the state convention of granges, held in Worcester, will be given by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Clapp and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Montague. There will also be discussions on these subjects: Are farmers keeping pace with the rest of the world in general knowledge and improved methods? Do farmer's wives have all the modern conveniences they might have, and if not, why not?

In Buckingham Street Home in Springfield, where Mrs. Bessie Simonds, formerly of this town, is superintendent, live 44 children ranging from four months to 13 years of age. Everything possible is done to make Christmas the most memorable day in the year. Stockings are hung in the fireplaces Christmas eve and a Christmas tree with Santa Claus follows on Christmas morning, with an entertainment by the children. This year Lawrence Lazelle is to be Santa Claus, and Misses Helen Simonds, Delphine Lazelle and Vera Ross are to assist Mrs. Simonds in entertaining the children. Miss Delphine is to spend her vacation from the seminary at the Home. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lazelle will also spend Christmas day there.

At the annual meeting of Henry H. Johnson post, No. 171, G. A. R., last Friday the following officers were chosen for 1912: Commander, James R. Hamilton; senior vice commander, George P. Field; junior vice commander, Rodney D. Doolittle; quartermaster, Calvin A. Irish; surgeon, Silas W. Bailey; chaplain, John A. Fisher; officer of the day, Lewis Fowler; officer of the guard, Charles E. Davis; patriotic instructor, John A. Fisher; sentinel, C. W. Mattoon; delegate to department encampment, Rodney D. Doolittle; alternate delegate to department encampment, Benjamin F. Field. Benjamin F. Field was reappointed adjutant and the post voted to unite with the W. R. C. in a joint installation on Friday, Jan. 5, 1912.

Mrs. S. E. Walker gave the Fortnightly a delightful afternoon on French Art last Monday. She showed many pictures representing the different schools of development in art and gave a lucid description of the characteristics of these stages of development. Miss Dorothy Whittle sang The Violet, following an explanation of the music by Mrs. A. E. Wilson who also described a sonata by Beethoven which was rendered on the piano by Miss Hope Mason of Keene, a student at the seminary. Mrs. Martha Gillett gave a paper on current events. It was voted at this meeting to observe gentlemen's night this year by giving a lecture. Each member may bring two guests. This lecture will take place on the night of Jan. 1. A further announcement will be given later.

The seniors of the high school gave one of the best managed receptions in the history of the school last Friday night. The guests included all the students of the school, the school board, faculty and alumni. More than 80 were present to meet the nine seniors who received in Library hall. In the early part of the evening a series of marches was enjoyed, followed by a short entertainment consisting of a piano duet by Misses Bernice Webster and Agnes Graham, and two selections by the high school quartet, Gertrude Proctor, Agnes Graham, Joseph Waite and Alton Dunnell. Refreshments of chicken salad, sandwiches, punch, and candy in fancy baskets were served. Miss Paul Sykes gave the address of welcome and was also toastmistress. Mrs. N. P. Wood responded to the toast, Our High School—The Past; Principal Tucker, Our High School—The Present and Future; E. F. Howard, Co-operation in the High School. The occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by each one present and it also showed the education our high school students are receiving in the ways of polite society.

Death of Edward F. Graves.

Edward F. Graves, 55, died at his home Sunday afternoon at 3.10 o'clock. Mr. Graves had not been well for some months and this fall had suffered much in his spine. Last Friday he went to the station to take a train for Northampton but as the train was very late he started back home. He was found lying in the road by a driver from the South Vernon House. He had suffered a paralytic shock and did not regain consciousness.

Mr. Graves had spent most of his life in this vicinity. When a young man he was employed on the railroad and received a severe injury to his spine from which he always suffered. For many years he successfully conducted a restaurant at the South Vernon station, leasing it the past year. Mr. Graves is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. William Miller, four grandchildren and three sisters: Mrs. Erastus Tyler of Vernon, Mrs. Jennie Weeks of Brattleboro, and Mrs. Alice Gale of Guilford. The funeral was held Wednesday at 1 o'clock in charge of Rev. N. Fay Smith, assisted by Rev. A. E. Phelps. A quartet composed of L. W. Brown, A. A. Dunklee, F. L. Stark and Dayton Parks gave two selections of song. Burial was in the West Northfield cemetery. Those from out-of-town were: E. C. Brown of Bernardston, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Godin of Hatfield, Ernest Graves of Montague, Harry Graves of Chicopee Falls, Lisle Graves of Florence, William Goodchild of Northampton, B. A. Clifton, Miss Grace Clifton and Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Lane of Lake George, N. Y., Rev. George Tyler of Bristol, Conn., John Gale of Guilford, Mrs. Frank Weeks and Mrs. Spencer Knight of Brattleboro and Mrs. J. L. Stockwell of West Brattleboro. The funeral was largely attended and the abundance of flowers gave evidence of the esteem and respect which were accorded to Mr. Graves.

Mrs. Harry Hargraves has the mumps.

Mrs. Fiske is in Springfield this week.

Nina Gates of Putney is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Aldrich.

Edward C. Holton of Chester, Vt., was in town Monday visiting relatives.

E. O. Fairman, brother of Mrs. William Strange, has typhoid fever and is at Greenfield hospital.

Charles Hill, who was a clerk in one of the stores here, has bought out a cigar and tobacco store in Springfield.

Ethel Eames of South Framingham is visiting her aunt, Mrs. D. L. Parks. Mrs. Effie Ainslee is also a guest at Mrs. Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bolton will be entertained at Mrs. Charles Stebbins's on Christmas when Mrs. Stebbins will have a large house party.

Terrible Suffering from Neuralgia

Burlington Woman's Experience with Mysterious Pain Ease.

This letter from a Burlington woman is just like hundreds of others that we are constantly receiving.

"It is with many regrets that I cannot express myself as I would like to after three days of untold suffering, living between hope and despair with neuralgia. It seemed at times as if death was preferable to prolonged suffering. But my agony was turned to rejoicing by using the Mysterious Pain Ease in less than five minutes, and a more thankful woman never lived, I think, than I am."

Mysterious Pain Ease is so good for so many aches and pains that are almost every-day occurrences in the home, that it should be kept constantly on hand.

Be careful about taking harmful drugs inwardly.

Mysterious Pain Ease is a Scotch doctor's prescription that relieves quickly by absorption through the pores.

For sale by all druggists (or by mail) in 25 cent and 50 cent bottles.

CHANDLER M. RUSSELL.

Well-Known Resident Died in Brooklyn Friday.

Chandler Miller Russell, 69, well known throughout Vermont, western Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire as an authority on civil war subjects and a lecturer upon the great conflict, died of acute indigestion in a hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y., Friday. Mr. Russell left his home in Wilmington two weeks ago to fill lecture engagements in Brooklyn and New York, although too ill to make the trip. He was cautioned by friends that he ought not to attempt to make the journey, but insisted that he would feel better soon. Shortly after reaching the city he was taken critically ill and failed so rapidly that it was impossible for him to reach home and he was taken to a hospital. Though his neighbors and many of his Vermont friends were aware of the seriousness of his attack the announcement Saturday morning that he was dead came as a shock to the southern part of this county where Mr. Russell was best known.

The body was taken to Wilmington Sunday, being escorted by a delegation of Masons from Brooklyn. Funeral services were held in the First Universalist church in Wilmington at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Flint M. Bissell, pastor of the church, officiated. There were brief services at Mr. Russell's home on West Main street. Mr. Bissell paid a faithful tribute to the life and character of Mr. Russell, whom he declared was an overflowing source of information in literature and history especially that pertaining to the civil war. The pastor said that locally everybody who desired information went to

CHANDLER M. RUSSELL.

Mr. Russell for their historical facts. While many had declared that Mr. Russell had needlessly sacrificed his life in fulfilling his Brooklyn and New York lecture engagements Mr. Bissell said he rejoiced that his friend had displayed such manly courage, even though he gave his life as a result. The pastor referred to the many offices of trust and responsibility which Mr. Russell had held.

Three selections were sung by E. H. Miller of Dummerston, and the burial was in the village cemetery where the ritualistic service of the Masonic order was carried out by a delegation from Social lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M., Perry Whitney, worshipful master. The burial service of the G. A. R. was given by Judge George J. Bond of Searsburg, and a delegation of about 20 members of C. B. Lawton post, G. A. R., assisted by E. E. Cook of Wilmington. A wealth of floral tributes covered the casket. Taps were sounded by George C. Dixon. Among those attending the funeral from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer of Shelburne Falls, Mass., Arthur W. Childs of Manchester, N. H., F. W. Childs and R. S. Childs of Brattleboro, James L. Bowen of Springfield, Mass., and Mrs. Moses Wilson of Bennington.

Mr. Russell was born Dec. 7, 1842, being the only son of J. Higley and Harriet (Partridge) Russell. After attending public schools in his native town of Wilmington, he was graduated from Weslevan academy in 1865. At the age of 20 he enlisted in his native town in Company F, 16th Vermont volunteers, and participated with this regiment in the battle of Gettysburg, being mustered out of service Aug. 10, 1863. Returning from the field, he filled the position of principal of the Wilmington high school, and afterward, for a period of 11 years, was in the mercantile business there. He again resumed the profession of teaching, and in 1882 entered the National college of elocution in Philadelphia, graduating from that institution two years later. He was one of the directors of the Mount Vernon institute of elocution and languages of Philadelphia, and in 1891 was elected a councilor of the American institute of civics, New York City.

For many years Mr. Russell had been correspondent of various newspapers, including The Reformer, and at the time of his death was engaged in collecting material for a history of the 16th Vermont regiment, extracts from which have already been published. For more than 30 years Mr. Russell had been a Freemason, holding various honorable positions in the order, and was president of the Windham County Veterans' association. Till within four or five years he had carried on an extensive insurance business in Wilmington, where he had held several public offices of trust and responsibility.

Mr. Russell was foremost in promoting the successful reunions of Old Home week, of which Wilmington was the originator. Mr. Russell married in 1877 Gertrude E. Bowen of Readsboro, who, together with one daughter, Mrs. Nicholas P. McDonald, and Russell, a grandchild, survive him.

V. L. Adams was in Brattleboro Wednesday.

M. A. Brown's horse, "Old Kitty," died Wednesday.

A baptismal service was held at the Advent church last Sunday evening. Rev. N. Fay Smith baptized three Mt. Hermon students.

But for the coolness and bravery of Mrs. William Stone the Noyes buildings might have been burned last Sunday on account of an overheated stovepipe.

Christmas exercises are to be held at the Advent Christian church next Friday evening at 7 p. m. A committee was chosen last Sunday evening to see to the exercises. The Loyal Workers will have charge of decorating the church. All are invited, as the exercises will probably be very interesting.

Miss Amy Carroll, who is working for Mrs. Charles Jackson, went to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carroll, of Rowe, Mass., last Wednesday to attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Alice, who was married the following day to Mr. Stanford. Mrs. Fred Jackson of Northfield, Mass., took Miss Carroll's place while she was gone.

The many friends and neighbors of Edward Graves (better known as Ned) were much shocked and saddened to hear of his sudden illness and death. He had been in poor health a long time, but Thursday he said he felt pretty well, better than he had for a long time, so he thought he would take the train Thursday morning and go to Northampton. He went to the station, but the train was late, so he started to return home and he got as far as the east side of the bridge when he was stricken with a shock and fell. He never regained consciousness. His right side was completely paralyzed and he could only move his left arm and leg.

The following officers of the Loyal Workers were elected Dec. 10: President, Ernest Dunklee; vice-president, Ernest Adams; secretary, Mrs. S. J. Martineau; treasurer, Warren B. Dunklee; organist, Miss Florence Terrington; lookout committee, Paul Thompson, Mrs. C. P. Buffum and Miss Stella Adams; devotional committee, Mrs. W. N. ### HARVEY H. BRAINARD.

Sketch of Veteran Whose Sudden Death Occurred Dec. 14.

Harvey H. Brainard, 73, whose sudden death last week Thursday afternoon was reported in The Reformer, was born in Rush, N. Y., June 27, 1838, a son of Hezekiah and Laura Eliza (Phelps) Brainard. Mr. Brainard's father died when he was quite young and during those early years and until 21 years of age made his home in Rush and Rochester, N. Y.

At the breaking out of the war of the rebellion Mr. Brainard enlisted in Company G, 13th New York volunteers, as a private. He was stationed near Washington for some time and his first entry into the service was at Arlington Heights, Va. The first battle in which he was engaged was the second battle of Bull Run, and other engagements in which he participated were at Hall's Hill, Antietam, Blackburn Ford and Fredericksburg. He was slightly wounded Dec. 13 by a shell at Fredericksburg. In March, 1862, he was in hospitals at Georgetown and Baltimore. The most important event in his service was at the battle of Fredericksburg where the 13th New York was the last to recross Pontoon Bridge and the first to enter Sharpsburg at daybreak on the morning of the battle of Antietam. It captured 50 prisoners. The brigade of which the 13th New York was a part was the advance of the Fifth Corps and the only brigade that crossed the Potomac at Blackburn Ford Sept. 21, 1862. Mr. Brainard was discharged at Rochester, N. Y., May 13, 1863, at the close of his term of enlistment.

He was a charter member of Col. W. H. Greenwood post, No. 99, G. A. R., always taking an active part in the work of the order. He served three years as commander and was adjutant and patriotic instructor at the time of his death. He was deeply interested and closely connected with the G. A. R., nearly always attending the department encampments and many of the national encampments. He attended the last national encampment in Rochester, N. Y., his old home, last August. After his return home he did not seem to be in his usual health, gradually failed and was able to do but little work, although he was supposed to be as well as usual Thursday. He was very helpful to Col. W. H. Greenwood Women's Relief corps. His kindly word, pleasant smile and helpful hand will be greatly missed by the members of the corps.

Mr. Brainard's first wife was Miss Sophronia A. Ford of Brookline, whom he married in 1864. They lived for one year in Henrietta, N. Y. Then coming to Putney they lived two years at the late Charles Blood farm on West hill. Mrs. Brainard died in 1867, leaving two children, Duane and Hattie S. Brainard. On Feb. 22, 1869, Mr. Brainard married Miss Wealthy J. Skinner of Chester. Three children were born to them: Lydia E., A. Byron, and Chauncey A. Mr. and Mrs. Brainard lived on West hill and he built the house on the farm now owned by E. W. Aiken. After residing there a few years they moved to the village and a little later to the house which had since been their home. After coming to Putney Mr. Brainard engaged in farming for a few years and then, in company with James A. Gilbert, engaged in the occupation of threshing. After two years the partnership was dissolved, and Mr. Brainard continued the business alone with the addition of wood sawing. He made his own machinery, for horse power, which he used until 1886, when he installed steam power. He had several boilers, which were unsatisfactory, and then with the assistance of his sons he built a boiler which he used in his business until three years ago, when he changed again for a gasoline engine.

Mr. Brainard was of genial disposition, a kind neighbor and friend, always ready to assist when possible for him to do so. He was not identified with any church but his life and character were above reproach. He leaves besides his wife, four children: Duane Brainard of Bellows Falls, Mrs. Hattie S., wife of Almond Marsh of Townshend; Lydia E., wife of George Worthley of West Townshend, and Chauncey A. Brainard of Springfield, Mass. A son, A. Byron, died Nov. 1, 1895, at the age of 22. He is also survived by eight grandchildren, one great-grand child, one sister, Mrs. A. A. Kidder of Fairpoint, N. Y., and one half-brother, Payette Brainard of Idaho.

The funeral was held at the home Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. J. E. Berry of the Baptist church, officiating. The burial service of the Grand Army was used and the body was laid to rest beneath the folds of "Old Glory," the flag he loved and fought to save. Three selections were rendered by a quartet, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burdett and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Field—One Sweetly Solemn Thought, We Shall Sleep, But Not Forever, and A Few More Markings Weary. The bearers were members of the G. A. R., A. D. Kerr, A. P. Ranney, M. V. Sleeper and C. F. Brown. Burial was in the family lot in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

Death of Rev. J. S. Cogswell.

News was received Friday of the death of Rev. Joseph Smith Cogswell, 76, at East Braintree, Vt., Dec. 14. Mr. Cogswell purchased D. M. Frost's place on Main street a few months ago and came here last July to make his home, coming here from Connecticut where he had a pastorate. Mr. and Mrs. Cogswell left just before Thanksgiving to visit their son in Derry, N. H., Mr. Cogswell had held pastorates in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut. Before going to Connecticut he was pastor of the Congregational church in Dummerston. The funeral was held at the home of his son, Dr. Samuel J. Cogswell, in Derry, N. H. Services at the request of the deceased were under Masonic rites. He was a member of Golden Rule lodge, No. 32, F. & A. M., of this town. A number of relatives, neighbors and friends attended. The first part of the service was conducted by Rev. Charles F. Robinson, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Derry Village. He referred to the life work of Mr. Cogswell, who was born in the year 1835, and who after a thorough preparation for the Christian ministry began his work 43 years ago, and had been in active service since that time. He spoke of the fact of his preaching the previous Sunday morning at East Braintree as a candidate for a local church and that following his sermon the church held a meeting and voted unanimously to extend him a call to become its pastor. Pneumonia, following a cold, caused his death. His wife is seriously ill at the home of her son, Dr. Cogswell. The prayer at the service was by Rev. Frederick R. Kelley of the First church of East Derry, and Rev. Jesse G. MacMurphy, worshipful master of St. Mark's lodge, F. & A. M., conducted the ritualistic service, assisted by H. A. Hill, Prof. E. R. Angell, Charles B. Chase and Charles Huntee. The bearers were L. H. Pillsbury, Charles H. Clement, Phillip P. Dow and Silliam T. Morse, the last three being members of St. Mark's lodge. At the cemetery the burial service of the Masons was performed. Mr. Cogswell leaves, besides his wife, a son, Dr. Samuel J. Cogswell, of Derry, N. H., and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Withers, of New York city.

The Rayo Lamp

It Never Flickers

The long winter evenings give a woman a splendid chance for sewing or embroidery; but her eyes suffer from the strain unless she has a good light.

The Rayo is the best lamp made.

It gives a strong, diffused light that is remarkably easy to the eyes. There is no glare to it; no flicker. It lights up a whole room.

The Rayo is an economical lamp, too.

You get the most possible light-value for the oil burned; and the Rayo itself is a low-priced lamp. Yet it is a handsome lamp—an ornament to any room in the house.

The Rayo Lamp is easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated; also in numerous other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)
