'Pocketed' Bills—Repeal of Bankrupt Law—Appropriation Bill—Chaplain, &c.

Correspondence of The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, Dec. 14.

In SENATE, to-day, petitions were presented by various Senators.

Leave was asked and obtained for the introduction of several bills, among which were the following: By Mr BATES for the settlement of Revolutionary claims of Massachusetts; by Mr. Graham for the satisfaction of claims for indemnities for loss of slaves on board the Comet and Encomium; by Mr. Linn to refund the fine to Gen. Jackson, (on Mr L.'s motion, made the special order for Wednesday next.)

The resolution of Mr. Benton inquiring of the President the estimated value of the vessels required for the African squadron under the late British treaty, the cost of repairs, number of men, the whole number of cannons it is expected to have afloat in the United State Navy for 1843 &c., was adopted.

Mr. Clayton on account of ill health, at his request, was excused from service on the Committee on Printing.

The resolution for the employ of reporters, was postponed to Monday next.

The resolution of Mr. Graham to amend the rules of the Senate, so provide that no claim on the Treasury of whatever discription, after once having been reported on unfavorably and the report concurred in by the Senate, shall be brought up again except on affidavit that new testimony in favor has been obtained, or specifying some mistake in the previous proceeding on the subject, after debate by several Senators was adopted.

The bill of Mr Benton for the repeal of the Bankrupt Act, with the proposed amendments of Mr. Graham providing that it shall not affect applications made before the 5th inst. coming up.

Mr. Berrien moved its reference to the Committee on the Judiciary. He said that public opinion which was now considered in favor of the repeal of the bill, was in his estimation opposed only to the provision for voluntary bankruptcy. He opposed setting such an example of instability of legislation as would be presented by the precipitate repeal of the bill, but thought that after mature reflection it might be modified so as to retain the provision for involuntary bankruptcy and in that form to be consonant to public wishes.

Mr. Benton vehemently denounced the bill as unconstitutional, impolitic and unjust opposed the reference to a Committee should that is was their duty at once to come up and erase this foul blot from their statute books. It was a question of repeal or no repeal.

Mr. Tallmadge disagreed with Mr. B., and thought the question presented was rather whether they would repeal the law deliberately or not. Let it go to a committee and let them report; there was no danger but it would the be repealed speedily enough. It was entirely a new proposition to repeal a law of such importance, without submitting the subject to the examination of the appropriate Committee. He hoped the motion of reference would prevail

Mr. Crittenden believed a temporary Bankrupt Law better adapted to the condition of the country than a permanent one. He had been in favor of the law, and believed that it had done much good; but in obedience to what he deemed the public sentiment, he was inclined to think he should feel constrained to vote for the repeal, unless modified so as to render it unobjectionable.—He thought it should be referred to the Committee, and the matter be acted on deliberately.

Mr. Merrick thought it probable he should vote for the repeal, but went for the reference.

The question was then taken and the bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

In the House. On motion of Mr. Briggs the house proceeded to the election of Chaplain. On the seccond ballot Rev. Mr. Tiffany, of the Episcopal church having received 119, out of 198 votes cast, was declared duly elected.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Report of Secretary Spencer furnishes a very full and satisfactory account of the state of the Department under his control. A very thorough inspection has been made, under his order, of all the military affairs of the country, and the information thus obtained, he says, is of the most gratifying character. The estimates for the army proper for the first half of the year 1842, amount to $5538,586; whereas the appropriations for the same service for half of 1841 were $2.142,334; thus showing a reduction of $1,588,748—made possible by the close of the Florida war, the suspension of many expenditures in consequence of the low state of the Treasury and a general disposition to economise. The same causes have induced a reduction of the estimates for the fiscal year commencing July 1st 1843, to $3,204,568, being $1,080,100 less than the equivalent appropriations in 1842, and $867,430 less than those of 1840. The Secretary believes that the present military establishment of the country may be maintained for $3,100,000, not including stores, &c., nor expenses of erecting fortifications. The recommendations for the ordinance service of the year, commencing July, 1843, are $775,200. and in the Engineer Department for the next eighteen months, $1,245,500 are asked. The whole amount of estimates for the military service for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1844, is $4,144,154. The estimates for pensions for 1843 are $397,650. In the Indian Department the expenses are regulated by law and will amount in 1843 to $791,484.

The Secretary states that arrangements have been made with nearly all the Florida Indians to remove beyond the Mississippi; and that during the year 450 have been shipped, and 200 more surrendered. A force of 1644 men is retained in Florida. The troops withdrawn have been stationed at different points.

A strong force has been placed on Red River, under Gen. Taylor, to keep the Indians in check, and to prevent any attempts to engage in the contest in which Texas is involved with Mexico. The safety of the Southwest frontiers, in the Secretary's opinion, demand the continuance there of the present mounted rigiments.

From the general returns of the army it appears that the whole number of troops now in service is 9,847, consisting of 781 commissioned officers, 9,600 non commissioned officers. musicians, artificers, and privates, and 247 enlisted men for ordnance. The aggregate is 847 less than the number stated in the last annual report. The desertions have not been frequent though many discharges have been made of foreigners; and the Secretary recommends a modification of the laws prohibiting the enlistment of such.

Arrangements have been made whereby 2085 guns may be mounted at important points on the sea-coast. The works at Detroit and Buffalo will be vigorously prosecuted: and operations at the outlets of Lake Champlain have been suspended in consequence of the session to our Government of Rouse's Point, where the commencement of a work is recommended.

PEOPLE'S PRESS.

Middlebury, Dec. 21, 1842.

WASHINGTON INTELLIGENCE.

The proceedings at Washington cannot of course fail to excite an intense interest in the minds of our readers. Many important moves have already been made indicative of the objects of legislation, and the course of Congress in relation to them. Almost the first step was that of Mr. Everett for the repeal of the Bankrupt Law. Benton has done the same, and introduced a Bill into the Senate for its absolute, unconditional repeal, denouncing it as unconstitutional and all proceedings under it void. It is doubtless doomed to destruction. No modification will be admitted although no law ever passed Congress in principle more humane and beneficent, and after the rush for its benefits had passed over with proper qualifications would have secured more popular favor. It has been abused, but it has already rescued many a virtuous citizen from hopeless bondage.

In the discussion, Mr. Crittenden observed that he had ever been in favor of limiting the operation of the bankrupt law to about two years as best fitted to the situation of our country. That the present act had been in operation long enough nearly to accomplish its object, and that as the popular voice was decidedly against it he should vote for its repeal. The vote to suspend the rules to take up the repeal stood 137 to 63.

The motion of Mr. Adams to expunge the 21st rule has been laid upon the table, there probably to remain during the session.

The best indication of the determination of the whigs in this Congress to do some thing to effect during the present session is voting to lay on the table the motion of Wm. Cost Johnson to repeal the one-hour rule by nearly a party vote, thus reserving to themselves the only engine of consummating their measures.

President Tyler's Exchequer scheme has already been acted upon and referred to the committee of Ways and Means. The Intelligencer speaks well of it. The Globe is savage against it. Every loco will go against it, and it is extremely doubtful whether a sufficient number of whigs can be brought in to its support. The attempt of Mr. Botts to bring the letter of John C. Spencer before Congress, in which, to justify his treacherous course, he calumniates the whig leaders with having offered to postpone the second bank bill on condition that the whig members of the cabinet should not be disturbed in their stations, was certainly unprecedented, but any investigation would doubtless have exhibited this weathercock of party in no very enviable light.

We know not how to construe the motives of the President in sending a message apologizing to the House for not having signed the 20 per cent proviso distribution bill, and holding himself free to act on these subjects should they be again presented to his consideration. Can any good come out of Nazareth?

THOMPSON'S HISTORY, AND GAZETEER OF VERMONT.

We have recently been kindly favored with a copy of this work by the author, and have so far examined its contents as to be fully satisfied that it is a rich mine of valuable knowledge to our citizens. As a natural and civil history of Vermont, and an useful Gazeteer, it embodies more information in relation to our little state than all other similar publications put together. For fifteen years Mr. Thompson has been assiduously engaged in gathering the materials of this copious work, and has further availed himself of the aid of many of our most talented and inteligent citizens and scholars. The useful and ornamental engravings with which it abounds are fine specimens of the art, and in many instances so perfect, that even children can recognize the striking similitudes. The style of the author, is chaste and unostentatious.

Although this work cannot lay claim to perfection, yet it makes a very considerable advance upon all that have preceeded it in its chosen field of labor, and at least has the merit of supplying deficiencies and felicitously rectifying many errors in which the nation has been involved in relation to Vermont.

No state in the Union can boast a performance in relation to itself of equal magnitude, or more diversified and useful intelligence. It comprises six hundred and fifty pages of a typographical execution of more than ordinary finesess. The design and laborious completion of the book reflects the highest credit upon the author; and so sensible was the Legislature of the honor which it confers upon the state, with so little hope of any adequate compensation to Mr. Thompson in its sale within our restricted limits, that at their last session, they voted a gratuity of five hundred dollars. This act of munificence was equally honorable to both parties, and should be imitated by every Vermonter who is able to purchase this truly rich storehouse of immediately useful and gratifying knowledge.

Pilgrim Celebration.

The anniversary of the Landing of our Pilgrim Fathers on the rock of Plymouth, will be celebrated in the Congregational Church, on Tuesday evening next. This is a right announcement. At a moment when catholic Europe is pouring in upon us like a flood, and in various ways, the seeds of ecclesiastical despotism are taking rank root in our country it is time to reinvigorate those noble principles of religious liberty which actuated the fathers of New England in leaving their native land, and amidst the most appalling hardships and hazards establishing a new nation, in this then howling wilderness.

SUMMARY.

Mr. Colquit, a member of the present house of representatives from Georgia, has been elected to the U. S. Senate.

AT IT IN SEASON. The Vermont loco foco state Committee are calling upon the party in each town, to elect delegates to a loco convention, to be held at Montpelier on the 5th of January next. Why cant this party give the people a little longer rest from their ambitious agitations?

We find a notice signed by W. R. Ranney, James Spaulding and Z. P. Burnham, of an adjourned meeting of the Vermont Medical Society, to be held at Montpelier on the day preceding the state convention for amending the constitution. A full attendance of the medical faculty is earnestly requested.

☞Death of a member of Congress.—Hon. James S. Williams, member of Congress from Maryland, died at his residence in Hartford county Dec. 2d from an attack of the appoplexy.

WOOL. No change is made in the quotations in Boston market.

Millerism near home.—Messrs Miller and Himes, two great guns have given notice of Lecturing in Vergennes!

Martin Brimmer, whig has been elected Mayor of Boston, By an overwhelming majority. The alderman and common council are also whig.

The State Committee of the Liberty party have given notice to all who are prepared to cut loose from both political parties, and will hereafter vote for no man but an uncompromising foe to slavery, and a friend of immediate emancipation, to meet at Randolph on the 3d of January next to nominate state officers. How comes it that this convention is two days in advance of the federal Loco, which meets at montpelier on the 8th?

REV. Alanson St. Clair, in company with one or more of the state committee of the Liberty Party, is about to deliver a series of lectures at different times and places in the northern section of the state. Col. Miller is already in the field against slavery and will be in Middlebury in a few days

CALAFORNIA. In his message the President alludes to the favorable prospects of an amicable adjustment of our claims up on the Mexican government, and the speedy payment of the same. As it is known that Mexico can pay no money it is believed in Washington that a negotiation for the cession of Calafornia is going on for the liquidation of these claims.

OBERLIN INSTITUTE.—A Bill to repeal the charter of this institution has passed to its 3d reading in the Ohio House of representatives, and on the 8th inst. was laid on the table by one vote.

MURDER OF MIDSHIPMAN J. S. PATTERSON. The following letter, detailing a most atrocious assassination, is publised in the Madisonian of Saturday:

U S. SHIP COLUMBUS, Mahon.
Oct. 20, 1842.

To Hon. ABEL P. UPSHUR, Sec. of the Navy.

The melancholy duty devolves upon me of announcing to the Department the untimely death of Passed Midshipman John Smith Patterson, of the U. S. Navy, Acting Master of the frigate Congress.

This officer was assassinated on Friday evening, the 28th inst. about 11 o'clock, in the town of Mahon, while on his return to the ship.

This foul and cruel murder has been committed without any known provocation, and its very wantonness has increased the deep distress felt for his loss by his numerous and warmly attached friends and messmates.

Every exertion is being made by the civil authorities; but no trace has yet been discovered of the perpetrator of the horrid deed.

The deceased received three stabs with a knife in the left breast, one of which pierced his heart, causing instant death. His mortal remains were interred this morning at the American burial ground with the usual military honors.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
CHAS. W. MORGAN, Commander in-Chief of the U. S. Naval forces in the Mediterranean.

MORE STEAMBOATS LOST. The steamboat Saratoga was sunk by a snag a few miles above the mouth of the Ohio. The passengers and baggage were saved. She sunk in 30 feet water, boat and cargo total loss.

The Boston also struck a snag near the same place, and was obliged to throw overboard a large part of the cargo to save the remainder.

The Patrick Henry was snagged on the 24th ult. near the spot where the Gen. Pratte was burned She was bound up, and it was thought would be got off.

The Red River Whig says that the steamboat Fort Gibson, Capt Flemming, struck a snag five miles below Alexandria, and immediately sunk. She was without cargo. The boat is a total loss. This makes the fifth steamboat loss we have recorded this morning! Cin. Chron.

MORE OF THE DUEL.

Thomas F. Marshall indicted. The Delaware State Journal of Tuesday last, says: "We understand that the Grand Jury of New Castle Country have found true bills against Col. Webb, Mr. Marshall, and their associates, for a violation of the laws of Delaware in relation to duelling."

The Philadelphia Inquirer of Thursday says: "The Grand Jury of Delaware county yesterday presented the Hon. Thomas F. Marshall, for fighting a duel. Col. Webb escaped the like notice, by reason of his having occupied a position on the other side of the line of the State, during the fight."

☞We find the following paragraph going the rounds of the papers:

The Troy Whig states that a corps of engineers are now in the field, examining a route for a railroad from Concord, N. H., to Montpelier and Burlington Vt.

Our readers will probably be supprised at this information. It is certainly news to us. Perhaps however our neighbor of the "Troy Whig" will be able to enlighten us on the subject. "We shall see." Bur. Free Press.

☞A letter to the New York Journal of Commerce from a gentleman in Chazy, Clinton county, N. Y., dated 26th Nov says:

"We had a sort of auto-da fe at the Carbo, (a village in the township of Champlain,) a short time since. The Roman Catholics had a protracted meeting, and during its progress they called in all the protestant Bibles which had been distributed and purchased among them, (except some few who would not give them up) and made a public bonfire of them. It was said by those who witnessed it, that the number thus burned was between two and three hundred. Efforts was made to purchase them, but to no effect. We have had public meetings both here and in Champlain, to give some expression of sentiment in regard to the wicked outrage."

Notice.

The two hundred and twenty second anniversary of the landing of our forefathers on the shores of New England, will occur on Thursday the 22d inst On the evening of that day an address will be delivered by Professor STODDARD on the character and principles of the Puritans. Services will commence at half past six o'clock in the Congregational Church. Appropriate music is expected. The public generally are invited to attend.
