To Correspondents. No notice can be taken of anonymous communications. We must know the name and address of our correspondents as a guarantee of good faith. We cannot undertake to return rejected communications, and if the writer wishes to preserve them, they must take a copy before sending them to us.

TO ADVERTISERS. The Daily Herald affords unusual facilities to advertisers. It circulates largely upon the lines of all our Rail Roads, and is taken by a class of the population who buy and sell and traffic largely in the time of the advertiser. The way to revive business is to advertise.

Terms of the Herald. Upon the first page will be found the terms of subscription to the Herald, and the only terms upon which the Herald can be procured, and no deviation in any case will be made therefrom. We have no friends to whom a rate will be given, and no agent is authorized to make any contract.

PROTEST FROM MASON AND SLIDELL.

Mason and Slidell, the would-be commissioners to European Courts, and at present the actual inspectors of the inside works of Fort Warren, are sorely grieved at their capture by the San Jacinto. We should have inferred as much without any evidence of a positive character; but since reading their remarkable "protest," drawn upon board the San Jacinto, the next day after they were favored with the hospitalities of that grinning monster of the ocean, we know they were grieved. Whoever is so fortunate as to be in possession of the "original," of their protest, undoubtedly finds it blistered with the tears of the two virtuous rebels whose names are signed thereto, as well as the tears of their respective and respectable Secretaries, Messrs. Eustis and McFarland, whose names are also appended to the "document." Com. Wilkes was favored with only a copy of said original, the latter undoubtedly being intended for the inspection of Her Majesty's Ministers, whenever an opportunity shall be presented to forward the same, which at present seems to be rather remote.

Ye commissioners, in the outset of their "protest," say that they "embarked at Havana on the 7th inst. as passengers on board the Trent. Capt. Moir, bound to the Island of St. Thomas," and it is unfortunate for them that they were not allowed to pursue a journey so auspiciously commenced. They further say they "paid their passage money for the whole route from Havana to Southampton," but whether in "confederate bonds," or in gold with the American Eagle stamped thereon, commonly known as Uncle Sam's currency, they do not state. We conclude that inasmuch as this is the only allusion they make to the payment of their passage, they wish to have it understood that what they thus paid was a dead loss to them, and that the Captain of the Trent refunded no portion of the "fare" which they "paid in advance."

They further say that while the Trent was "pursuing her usual course," (and while perhaps Mason and Slidell were cracking their champagne,) a shotged gun was fired by the San Jacinto "across the course of the Trent." Of course, in the language of "Honest Abe," "nobody was hurt." But the Trent "rove to," and was boarded by a Lieutenant of the U. S. N., "with full crews armed with muskets and side arms." Mason and Slidell left their champagne, and appeared with "most of the passengers on the upper deck" of the Trent. Lieutenant called for "passenger list." Captain of Trent refused to produce it, and "formally protested against any right to visit his ship for the purpose indicated."— (Captain of the Trent, knew, then, the character of his "passengers.") Mason and Slidell say he was indignant at the outrage of taking them from the Trent, and "protested" against it. Captain of the Trent claimed the right in the name of the British Government to carry rebel ambassadors and dispatches. An officer in the Naval Uniform of Great Britain, and "known to the passengers as having charge of the mails," said to the United States Lieutenant, that as the only person present representing his government, he felt called upon, in language as strong and emphatic as he could hespress, to denounce the whole proceedings as a piratical haect. But all without avail. Mason and Slidell were transferred "by force" to the San Jacinto, and thus lost the money they had paid "as fare to Southampton." But they omitted to say they were being conveyed to Fort Warren, by the liberality of the U. S. Government, free of expense!

They close their protest by declaring that their brief narrative is believed to be "correct," and respectfully ask Com. Wilkes if it is not so. Com. Wilkes replies in a note, that it is not correct, but "differs materially from the truth in time and circumstances," as appears from the log-book and the report of all the officers who visited the Trent! Poor Mason and Slidell! Cheated out of their "fare to Southampton," carried by force to the San Jacinto, incarcerated in Fort Warren, in due time to be tried and executed, (let us all hope,) for treason, and branded as liars by Com. Wilkes.

The idea of two such criminals making a "protest" against their capture! As well might the horse thief or murderer, protest that the sheriff armed with a warrant, violates his "personal rights," by making an arrest! Mason and Slidell must be brought to the realization of the fact that they are felons, and not ambassadors.

In conclusion, this "protest" furnishes the most conclusive evidence that the Captain of the Trent was fully aware of the character of these passengers, and so is brought clearly within the terms of the Queen's Proclamation of neutrality, which declares: that any English vessel, carrying munitions of war, or dispatches for either belligerents, will do so at its own peril, and cannot claim any protection of the British Government.

The ladies of Middletown sent Nov. 22d to Company B. 2d Regiment Vermont volunteers, in boxes to Washington, D. C. in care of F. L. Olmstead, for the U. S. Sanitary Commission, various articles of the usual description, to the amount of ninety-four dollars and sixty-three cents. In addition to this, the young people of the town sent a box of articles on the 9th inst., worth some thirty dollars to the young men who have gone to the army from Middletown. Mr. Andrus generously allowing his Hall to be used by the ladies in manufacturing articles for the soldiers. Well done, Middletown.

WALTON'S VERMONT REGISTER AND FARMER'S ALMANAC.—We have received the Vermont Register, and from a careful examination, are able to testify to the accuracy of the statistical and political information which it contains. The Vermont Register is for sale wholesale or retail, at Geo. A. Tuttle & Co's Bookstore. Those who have heretofore patronized "Atwater's Directory" are informed that the same is not published this year, but Walton's Register will be found a good substitute.

The Free Press says: "Our townsman, Mr. Miner B. Catlin, succeeds Mr. A. S. Dewey, as treasurer of the Savings Bank. Mr. Catlin is a careful and methodical business man, and will worthily fill the place of his worthy predecessor."

Elder J. V. Hiems, of Boston, will commence a series of meetings at the Advent Chapel in this village, commencing Saturday evening, Dec. 14, and continuing every evening till the 21st; also, Sundays 15th and 22d.

Building.—Roswell Allen raised the frame-work of a substantial dwelling on Nickwackett street, just opened, a day or two ago. This street offers several excellent building lots, and Mr. Allen has had the good taste and judgment to select one of them.

The Soldier's Relief Society meet at the House of Mr. Jas. Edgerton, Tuesday, December 17th, at 1 o'clock.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.—The musical festival last evening, given by Prof. Packard, was a great success. The Town Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and it is enough to say that the people of Rutland,—most of whom were present last evening,—were so highly delighted with the entertainment which has turned the heads (not improperly) of the girls of Rutland towards the importance of acquiring a musical education. We cannot say anything more highly complimentary to Prof. Packard than this: that the citizens of Rutland and vicinity would be glad to have him remain and give another course of lessons. We hope he may find it for his advantage to do so.

SEVENTH REGIMENT.—E. A. Morse, of Rutland, has been appointed Quartermaster of the Seventh Vermont Regiment. He held the same position in the First Vermont Regiment, to the entire acceptance of its officers and men, and with credit to himself, and we are glad that the services of an officer so competent and worthy have been secured for the Seventh. He is engaged, we understand, in making preparations on the Fair Ground in this place for the rendezvous.

For the Herald CASTLETON ITEMS. Marcus Eaton of this town, a member of Co. B, Capt. Hoop, 2d Vermont Regiment, died in Hospital at Georgetown, on Monday Dec. 2d. His remains were conveyed home by express, arriving last Friday and buried Saturday. He leaves a wife and two children. Seventy dollars was paid by the company to pay for coffin, express charges, &c. He left home for the army about the middle of October. This is the second death that has occurred in the company, the first a young man by the name of Taylor from Pawlet. The ladies of Castleton have sent two more large boxes, to the men of their own town, and we presume to say that all who have histories of other towns in the County will desire to replace this beside them.

A little incident occurred in the Senate on Thursday last which is worthy of note. Mr. Grimes, in reviewing the finding of the court of inquiry in the case of Colonel Miles, intimated that he could put no trust in any public man addicted to intemperance. This sentiment called down such a round of applause from the galleries that the Vice President had promptly to rebuke it. There were present at the time quite a number of our brave volunteers, from whom this outbreak of feeling spontaneously proceeded. We learn that there are a number of temperance societies in the various regiments, while there are whole regiments that refuse to touch a drop of ardent spirits and hence it was that the remark was so signally responded to.—National Intelligence.

The Secretary of the Navy has dispatched one of the fastest and most powerful vessels in the navy, and a swift gun-boat, to intercept the rebel steamer Nashville on her return trip. The instructions of the officers are to approach the British coast as near as the neutrality laws will permit, and to cruise off the coast until they capture the steamer. The Nashville is lightly armed, and if the U. S. steamers fall in with her she will certainly be taken.

BURNED.—Mrs. Lovie Benjamin, wife of E. W. Benjamin of Sharon, was burned to death a few days since. It is supposed that her clothes were ignited while kindling a fire, and before assistance came to her aid she was unconscious, and died in about two hours.

Fifteen thousand letters were received from our army in South Carolina, by a late steamer arriving at New York. What do the Southern slanders who called our soldiers an "ignorant, unlettered gang," think of this?

The Chicago Post notices the arrival in that city of the remains of a member of Col. Farnsworth's cavalry regiment, who had been tried and shot for sleeping while on duty as a guard.

VERMONT NEWS ITEMS. —Bennington County Court commenced its December Term at Bennington Centre on Tuesday last, Hon. L. C. Kellogg presiding.

THE NATIONAL LOAN.—V. P. Noyes, Esq., has received intimations from the Treasury Department that he will in a few days be authorized to open a new subscription for the loan in Burlington. — On the night of the 15th ult., the barn of Jessie Jones of Stratton was burned with all its contents. Loss about $200; partially insured. Supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

—The Cavalry Company raised in Leicester and vicinity by Capt. Sayles has been changed to Light Artillery, and will form a corps in Gen. Butler's Brigade. — The company now numbers something more than 100. When full there will be 150.

FIRE IN PAINEVILLE.—Two barns and a shed, the property of Thomas Coon, situated on the stage road about half a mile north of Essex Junction were completely consumed by fire yesterday morning. The fire originated by the breaking of a fluid lantern from the kick of a colt,—the lantern having been left on the barn floor by Mr. Coon. Loss $600 Insurance only partial.

THE TAXES.—Vermont has assumed the collection of the U. S. tax, and the amount is provided for in the usual tax bill. There will be no separate assessment for that tax. The whole State tax this year is 50 per cent on the Grand List. This List for State taxes amounts to $970,590 05; 50 per cent of which is about $485,450. Deducting abatements and 2 1/2 per cent for collection, and it is believed that this tax will yield $450,000 net revenue. By thus assuming the collection of the tax, the State saves about 12 1/2 per cent, net.

—A H. Copeland of Middlebury has just published a history of the Town of Shoreham by Rev. Josiah F. Goodhue. The Register says of it: The work is not so large as Judge Swift's History of Middlebury, but appears to be a remarkably complete thing, and is a work in which the town can take pride. Great credit is due the author and all those who co-operated with him. Of course no Shoreham man can do without the book, and we presume to say that all who have histories of other towns in the County will desire to replace this beside them.

A Battle Expected.—Gen. Butler's Expedition. Fort Monroe, Dec. 9. A flag of truce went to Norfolk this morning carrying 32 prisoners discharged by the United States on parole. A rebel flag of truce met our boat and transferred thereto some ladies coming from Richmond. From to-day Norfolk Bay Book, we learn that a battle is immediately expected on the Potomac, as the sutlers are removing their stores. War rumors were plentiful and the war fever very high. A telegram from Savannah, Dec. 7th, states that Gen. Butler's expedition arrived on that day at Port Royal. Nothing is said about a Parson Brownlow's victory or of the Fort Pickens affair.

On the 18th ult., a band of Navajo Indians went to Carolina, near Albuquerque, and stole a large quantity of stock. A party of citizens started in pursuit for the purpose of recovering the property, but six of the men having got on in advance, fell into an ambuscade and were killed. The rest of the party, being too few in number to continue the pursuit, were compelled to return. The same Indians have been committing depredations on a large scale.

SPITE CARRIED TO ITS UTMOST MAILIGNITY.—An ingenious friend of ours says he has discovered the secret of Nessus' Shirt. He says it was a shirt with all the buttons off. It was sent to Hercules purposely to annoy him, and the effect was, that every time he put it on, the absence of the buttons used to put Hercules into such a burning rage that ultimately it was the death of him!
