

SHOCKING MURDER

In Benwood Saturday Night. THE MURDERER AND HIS VICTIM

Both Well Known in Clarksburg.-- Formerly Residents of Adamston, W. Va., whence Tibbs Moved several Years ago and McCloud only About a Month ago. The murdered man buried at Clarksburg.

Monday's Intelligence's.] Strong drink was the cause of a murder at Benwood late Saturday night, that caused a sensation in that town.

In the lower portion of the town is located a row of brick residences, which has long been known as the "market house."

In the apartments second below the upper corner, Mrs. Tibbs her son, George Tibbs, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam McCloud reside. Mrs. McCloud is the daughter of Mrs. Tibbs. The whole family lived in two rooms, one at the rear on the first floor and a sleeping apartment on the upper floor.

Saturday evening the entire party spent several hours at Allbright's, a neighbor's house, indulging in drink and revelry. When the party left for home all were under the influence of liquor.

Charles Tibbs had left Allbright place intending to go to Bellaire and purchase a suit; but when up town he had encountered some boon companions and went to a saloon where he drank beer for some time and then started for the brick row in a drunken condition. In the meantime, Mrs. Tibbs, Mrs. McCloud and Sam McCloud had reached their domicile, all under the influence of drink and in a quarrelsome mood.

Tibbs did not seem to realize the enormity of the crime he had committed, as he went up town to get Marshal Cocks to arrest McCloud. In the meantime neighbors who had been aroused came in and found McCloud lying at the foot of the stairs in the hallway, with two wounds on the top of his head and one on the nose.

Tibbs while on his way up town met Cocks, and told him McCloud had been fighting and he wanted him to be arrested. At the same time he told him McCloud had assaulted him with a coupling pin, but he had taken it from him and "smashed him."

Educational Ideas.

The Chicago Globe takes issue with Mrs. Charles Henrotin, when she says that "the Anglo-Saxon idea of education has been a stunting of the growth of the individual."

It is about time our would be teachers recognized that American education means something more than the veneer of manners and the gloss of words; more than the babble of tongues and the chatter of isms, ologies and ologists.

Anglo-Saxon education never stunted a Shakespeare, a Milton or a Tennyson; a Bacon, a Locke or a Darwin, a Cromwell, a Chatham or a Gladstone; a Franklin, a Washington or a Lincoln.

And yet in Illinois and in other States a system of education is completely crushed. The State takes charge of the whole business and its arbitrary rules produce generations of people with the same ideas, the same virtues and vices, and the same aspirations in life.

An educational system that smashes individuality is hopelessly in the wrong, and this is precisely what is the matter with our modern system. Mrs. Henrotin is more than half right, and the Chicago paper is more than half wrong.—Ex.

The Wyoming Democratic house, in a recent resolution, declares that woman suffrage has "largely aided in banishing crime, pauperism and vice from the State; that it has secured peaceful and orderly elections, good government, and a remarkable degree of civilization and public order, and we point with pride to the facts that after nearly twenty-five years of woman suffrage not one county in Wyoming has a poorhouse; that our jails are almost empty, and crime, except that committed by strangers in the State, almost unknown, and as a result of experience we urge every civilized community on earth to enfranchise its women without delay."

Dr. I. Telyafus, of Tiflis, Russia, has recently published a brochure embodying his views as to the most efficient means of strangling cholera in its Indian home, and thus freeing Europe and America from the constant menace of its periodical excursions. The habitat of the cholera bacillus is, he says, the delta of the Ganges, a low-lying area of some 7,500 square miles, intersected by many mouths of the Ganges and Brahmapootra Rivers.

as a pandemic over the entire world. There have been four such general invasions, and we are now passing through the fifth.

Proust, in his work on hygiene, regards as Utopian any attempt to exterminate the germs of cholera in India, but with this pessimistic view Dr. Telyafus takes exception. He says that the plague has been stamped out in the Nile delta, and he thinks that similar or more energetic measures would be equally effective on the banks of the Ganges.

It would doubtless be difficult, if not impossible, to restrain the natives of India, inhabiting the region of the Ganges, from casting their dead into the waters of the sacred streams; but the author thinks this difficulty might be obviated by compelling the people to cremate their dead and then throw the ashes on the bosom of the river.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years—four bottles in all—as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home.

Life is full of amusement to an amusing man. Happy is he who has this faculty. It is more blessed than a garment in cold weather. There is nothing that so covers the nerves; there is nothing that so tempers anger and passion; there is nothing that is such a natural cure for discontent; there is nothing that brings men to such a companionable level and creates such fellowship, as the divine spirit of mirth.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Miss I. A. Bartlett, one of the firm of J. C. Bartlett & Co., of West Milford, W. Va., has purchased a large and fine stock of millinery goods, and after several weeks' experience and careful instruction under a competent milliner in the east, she feels sure she can give perfect satisfaction in the way of trimming nobby and stylish hats.

THE HANDSOMEST LADY IN Clarksburg remarked to a friend the other day that she knew Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs was a superior remedy, as it stopped her cough instantly when other cough remedies had no effect whatever.

We have just printed a lot of new blank warranty deeds, with the new form of acknowledgment. They are printed on triple extra white bond paper, and they have no superior in the State.

Dr. George M. Holt, Dentist, will be in his Clarksburg office May 1st, and remain 30 days.

SENTENCED TO MATRIMONY.

Recently in a Western State a young man and a young woman were contesting possession of a piece of property, the one claiming under an old lease, the other under an old will.

It strikes me, said the Justice that there is a pleasant and easy way to terminate this law suit. The plaintiff seems to be a respectable young man, and this is a very nice young woman. They can both get married and live up on the farm.

The lady blushed and the young man stammered that they "liked each other a little bit," so a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff on the condition of his promise to marry the defendant within two months—a stay of execution being put to the verdict until the marriage ceremony should be completed.

From the Ashville, (N. C.) Citizen, April 20th, 1893: Yesterday afternoon as H. C. Hugill, foreman carpenter on the Vanderbilt estate, was riding along the Glen road when his horse became fractious and finally stumbled and fell, catching the leg of the rider under its body.

DESERVING PRAISE. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.

Mr. Gladstone recently said: "The older I grow the more confirmed I am in my faith and religion. I have been in public life fifty-eight years, and forty-seven in the cabinet of the British government, and during those forty-seven years I have been associated with sixty of the master minds of the country, and all but five or the sixty were Christians."

The promptness and certainty of its cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping coughs, and is the most effectual remedy known for these diseases.
