BATTLESHIP WEST VIRGINIA LAUNCHED AT NEWPORT NEWS

Newport News, Va., Nov. 19.—The battleship West Virginia, one of the largest in the world, and scheduled for the scrap heap under the Hughes disarmament program, was successfully launched here at 11:20 o'clock this morning, ten minutes before scheduled time. Airplanes hummed overhead, bands played, whistles shrieked and bells tolled.

She was christened by Miss Alice Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. Mann, of Braunau, West Virginia. Maids of honor were Misses Eleanor Addison Williams and Mary Thom Hellen.

The superdreadnaught represented an investment of ten million dollars as she glided to the James on her maiden voyage. Guns and armor will bring the cost to approximately $31,000,000 and the total cost will range around $40,000,000.

Governor Morgan, of West Virginia, who, with Mrs. Moran and Little son, was here for the launching, declared that West Virginia will leave nothing undone to save the new "mistress of the seas" from the scrap heap. "We hope they will save the West Virginia and scrap an older ship," he declared.

"We desire her completion, but hope that she will never have to fire a gun and she will always stand for liberty, justice and freedom."

Other Members of Party.
Governor Morgan and party reached the city last evening and spent the night at the Warwick hotel. The governor declined to be interviewed, other than to make the brief statement given above. In addition to his wife and son, members of his party are Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bond, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. England, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ford, H. G. Young, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Sullivan, John Q. Charnock, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Johnson.

Miss Mann was accompanied here by her mother and sister. Those in the party from Washington were Representative and Mrs. George M. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Echols, Mr. and Mrs. Wells Goodkowitz, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Rosenbloom, all members of Congress from West Virginia.

NAVY DEPARTMENT REPRESENTATIVES.
The Navy Department was represented by Admiral Andrews, commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, and Rear Admiral J. L. Latimer, judge advocate general of the navy. Members of the naval affairs committee present were Isaac McPherson and Adolph L. Kline.

Secretary of the Navy Donby was unable to be present and sent his regrets. This is said to be the first battleship launched at this yard that was not attended by the secretary, and there have been many. The launching party and invited guests repaired to the Hotel Warwick for luncheon at 1:30. They were shown through the yard after the launching.

for, and possibly is too small for even that work.

There have been no meetings of the American military group. Their work has been confined to statistical preparation to inform the American delegates on any point that might arise. The data is in the hands of Secretary Hughes and his colleagues, and unless the experts are called in later, they have to active place in the conference.

It now appears likely that the conference will when it reaches the item on the agenda providing for discussion of new agencies of war, turn this question over to a joint commission of commissioners. The subject will involve use of arms, submarines and similar matters and it does not seem likely that this discussion will be carried on by the full conference.

Finally, the view expressed by some delegates that the whole complex Far East problem in the end are likely to be dealt with by the conference, not by the signature of any general treaty, but rather through a solemn declaration of principles, to the observance of which nations party to the conference would be bound only in honor.

Tomorrow the conference will make a start on still another of its problems, that of land armaments. At an open session Premier Briand is expected to present considerations of the Japanese enormous army outlay, and to invite discussion from the other powers. Italy is said to be ready also to set forth her views in a general way, and Mr. Hughes is understood to be considering a brief statement for the United States.

Japs Believe Naval Agreement Will Come
Washington, Nov. 20.—By the Associated Press.—As a result of the conference yesterday between Secretary Hughes, Mr. Balfour and Admiral Barou Kato, at which the naval question was thoroughly canvassed in the light of the Japanese reservations, the greatest confidence was expressed in American circles to-night that an accord eventually would be reached.

The conference, it was said effectually "cleared the air" of many misunderstandings.

While no official statement was forthcoming as to the line followed by the tripartite discussion yesterday, it was believed that a partial explanation, at least, lay in the statement obtained at the headquarters of one delegation that the three great naval powers might have varying estimates of the actual existing strength of their navies which, being harmonized, might suggest a way to a settlement of ratios.

Americans Analyze the Naval Situation
Washington, Nov. 20.—By the Associated Press.—The American delegates to the conference yesterday between Secretary Hughes, Mr. Balfour and Admiral Barou Kato, at which the naval question was thoroughly canvassed in the light of the Japanese reservations, the greatest confidence was expressed in American circles to-night that an accord eventually would be reached.

By Elimination.
Private conversations between the delegates seem to be developing that the Far Eastern question should be treated by the conference by a pure process of elimination. Several of the ten points made by China are known to be acceptable to all of the delegates, and it is suggested that these have been formally adopted, making sure at least some accomplishment. Others must be discussed to some extent, but this will only be in the privacy of committees.

Some of the American delegates believe their compromise can be reached on the debatable problems. Such, for instance, would be the Chinese appeal for the abolition of extra territorial jurisdiction. There is a prospect that provision will be made for this, with the understanding that the change will be made gradually to conform to the development of a modern judicial system in China which will insure justice for foreigners.

Especially active to-day were the groups having a vital interest in the Far Eastern question which is to come up to-morrow. Informal discussion in those quarters was said to-night to have led to the belief that consideration of the Chinese problem might culminate in the raising of the question of Shantung.

Translations of Briand Talk at Short Intervals
Washington, Nov. 20.—By the Associated Press.—Premier Briand, in addressing the arms conference to-morrow on the subject of land armaments, will not attempt to deliver his entire address, which may run for three-quarters of an hour, without stepping aside for the interpreter's translation in English. The premier does not speak English. There had been much speculation today in conference and newspaper circles as to how he might proceed.

Members of the French delegation explained that the premier at stated intervals of about three or five minutes, for example, would stop to permit the official interpreter to tell the conference exactly what had been said. Those who know the statesman say the interruptions will not break in on the trend of his thought or mar his usual eloquent delivery.

THE "BIG THREE"
Chinese Problems.
The problems affecting China, in particular, are considered very incapable of negotiation along any such exact lines as may be pursued in regard to armaments. It is said by some delegates who are giving special study to this branch of the conference that probably it will be necessary to deal with the subjects set out in the agenda and with the ten points of the Chinese proposition on very general lines. The important statement made by the Japanese delegates at Saturday's session is reported as showing a marked independence on Japan's part to go far into details, and the Chinese, who are pushing for specific declarations by the conference, have been reminded that after all, Japan came to the conference only after a clear understanding with Secretary Hughes that no nation could be bound by the conference against its will, even though all other powers were united against it.
