

AUCTION SALE OF JEWELRY

THOMAS' JEWELRY STORE, Sistersville, West Va.

I am preparing to leave Sistersville and will open up a jewelry store in Anniston, Alabama, about July 1st. Instead of incurring the expense of moving my stock from this store, I have decided to close it out at Auction Sale, consisting of

will be disposed of in this manner, commencing TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1905 and continuing two weeks or until I have disposed of my entire stock.

This is a bona-fide sale, nothing reserved, as I have leased my room and have made all arrangements to occupy the same on or about July 1st. This is an opportunity to purchase jewelry at your own price, as it is cheaper to move the money than the goods. My stock is well known to be high class, and the best and most up-to-date line that has ever been carried in Sistersville. Not a dollar's worth of old shelf worn goods, all new, up-to-date and desirable merchandise.

Two Sales Daily, Afternoon and Evening. Remember the Date, Tuesday, May 23rd.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at D. A. Hendershot's drug store; price 50¢.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Vivid colorings are conspicuous in the millinery of the year. The only new styles of parasols this season are the flat Japanese shape and the deep tub. Parasols of plain silk, with detachable handles of logwood, are popular for travelers. Shirt waist suits of natural pongee are trimmed with medallions of various lace in self color. Coat sets, consisting of collar and cuffs, are to be had not alone in linen and pique, but in lawn and lace as well. Although the reign of the polo turban and companion small hats continues, larger hats will also be on view during the coming months. The white linen hat covers the white linen parasol, the white sailor which can be hand painted or embroidered, or both; the white shoes, the white dresses, the belts, the stocks and all of the other articles of wardrobe.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Women are not the only Americans who pay fabulous sums for titles. John W. Gates spent $1,000,000 trying to become known as a wheat king and then did not succeed.—Kansas City Star.
Arkansas officials are in a bad state of mind because they have discovered that they langed the wrong man. But how is it possible for the wrong man to be hanged in Arkansas?—Chicago Journal.
There is an official of the New York municipal government who is called the problem of keeping a good cook. He married her. It was a heroic remedy, but good cooks are not picked up every day.—Baltimore American.

YOUR BLOOD VESSELS.

Keep Them Sound, and You Have the Elixir of Life.
Every age sees its earnest scientists still seeking how they may discover the elixir of the force which shall give us the energy, the vitality and the appearance of youth. A German who has been struggling with the subject is convinced that the secret lies in keeping sound our blood vessels. We are just as old as our blood. If our blood is old, this is no pretty practical sentiment, but a cold, scientific fact. As we get on in our career and the years pass by, and we then begin to "age." Now, we can train the organs, it appears, to work better than it does. Like an old clock, if the oil is good, it will go on as well as a new one, but it does not do to give it any of the liberties of the latter. We must carefully regulate the exercise we take, the food we eat, the mental efforts we make, the muscular work we do. We should neither walk too much nor too little. We should get as much air as possible and never over sleep. We should never eat cold, still less should we be rash about colds, fatigue, and so on.—London World.

Why the Cows Go Dry.

Cows go dry more from mismanagement than from any other cause. Irregularity of milking and failure to "strip" when milking will cause any cow to dry off. The richest milk is the last drawn from the udder, and for that reason alone the dairymen should strip closely. Changes of food, when made suddenly, will also cause the cows to fall off in yield, but in the winter the cause may also be due to extreme cold and insufficient shelter, while in summer the use of netting in the windows to protect the stable against the entrance of flies and other insects will serve to prolong the milking period.

Keep Chicks Free From Lice.

Build the nests of earth and tobacco stems or paint the inside of the box with a reliable lice paint. After the chicks are hatched paint the inside of the coops with it occasionally, taking care not to suffocate them. Go according to the directions for the particular kind used. The buildings should of course be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected occasionally and good dusting material provided.—Cor. American Agriculturist.

Sure Cure for Piles.

Itching piles produce moisture and cause itching, this form, as well as blind, bleeding or protruding piles, are cured by Dr. Bo-san-ko's Pile Remery. Stops itching and bleeding. Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Old Tudor Ghosts.

At Hampton court palace, near London, are, according to report, several ghosts, all of which belong to the Tudor period. "First is Jane Seymour," says a writer, "who, clad in white garments and carrying a lighted candle, ascends the queen's staircase on the anniversary of the birth of her son, Edward VI. The ghost was laid by the opening up of the staircase. Mrs. Penn, the nurse and foster mother of Edward VI, is the most persistent ghost. Since her grave was disturbed in Hampton church her gaunt figure in a long gray robe has walked the vicinity of her old rooms, and the whirring of her spinning wheel has been heard by several people. The board of works instituted an inquiry and discovered a walled up room with an old spinning wheel, the treadle of which appeared to have worn the oaken flooring. The third Tudor ghost is Catherine Howard, who is reputed to haunt a gallery about to be opened to the public."

Coals the sun.

Coaling the sun is an expression used by physicists to indicate the necessity of renewing the stock of motive power, exactly analogous to coaling a vessel for an ocean journey. Many maintain that this is done by the incessant showers of meteorites which rain in upon it from celestial space. Thus it is that the sun's energy is continually kept up and its fires are fed. Atom after atom in the continuous collisions of matter is changed into vapor and adds its quota of energy to the great central storehouse—in fact, "coals the sun."

Greely a Lifelong Farmer.

"I would have been a farmer had any chance of farming been known to those among whom my early boyhood was passed," Horace Greely wrote in 1868. "Farming as understood and practiced by those among whom I grew up was a work for oxen, and for me the life of an ox had no charms." And in temperament Horace Greely was a farmer all his life. He was born on a poor little farm in New Hampshire, and his childhood experiences of the vocation were those of terribly hard work and a meager living as its reward. It is no wonder that printing seemed more promising to him.—Oliver Bronson Capen in Country Life in America.

A Great Greek Scholar.

When Professor Jacob Cooper of Rutgers was examined for admission to Yale in 1852 Tutor Talcott said to Mr. Cooper, "How much Greek have you read?" "Over 3,000 pages," was the reply. "You don't mean that, do you said Mr. Talcott. "Isn't it 3,000 line?" "No, sir," was the reply. "When I say pages, I mean pages." In later life declared that if all the Hebrew Bible in the world were destroyed he could reproduce the text from memory.
