RELIGIOUS KNOWLEDGE:

DESIGNED TO

ILLUSTRATE RELIGIOUS TRUTH.

EDITED BY

MARCUS E. CROSS.

Religion's all. Descending from the skies
To wretched man, the goddess in her left
Holds out this world, and in her right the next.
Religion! Providence! an after state!
Here is firm footing; here is solid rock!
This can support us; all is sea besides.
His eye the good man fastens on the skies
And bids earth roll, nor feels her idle wbirl.

"Est brevitate opus ut currat sententia."

Let brevity despatch the rapid thought.

Jesus said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them. Mark x. 14, 16.

And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent. John xvii. 3.

I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. Rev. xx1. 6.

"It is a philosophy which never rests—its law is progress: a point which yesterday was invisible is its grad to-day, and will be its starting-post to-morrow." — Edin. Rev.

"Part of the present Tradice was written originally in the form of a supplement to my former work entitled 'Principles of Geology,' and was inlended for the use of those students who found certain chapters in the 'Principles' obscure and difficult, for want of preliminary information. I afterwards considered that it would not be incompatible with this object to enlarge the 'Elements' into a separate and independent treatise, to serve as an Introduction to Geology proper. . . . . . . The volume now offered to the public, is neither an epitome of the 'Principles,' nor an abidigement of any part of that work." — Extract from the Author's Proface.

W.H.B. In's Enigma is wanting in many of the requisites in writing a good Enigma. We have received many offerings of the kind, which bear evident marks of juniorism, which, for our own and the authors' credit, we have withholden from

Our respected friend J. W. D. is gratefully recognised, to whom we owe our best respects for his acceptable annual contributions to our little work. We feel willing to remunerate him for his constant and unremitting labor,—if he will be so good as to call at the publishers' store

We are sorry to notice that our correspondents are less numerous the year past than usual, and more particularly our Mathematical friends; true, one or two of them have deceased. We shall ever be happy to receive any new improvement in Agriculture, art or science adapted to our small work, as also useful or diverting and amusing Essays, Anecdotes, Enigmas, &c.

OLD AND NEW STYLE.

The Julian Year, introduced by Julius Cæsar, 45 years before the Birth of Christ, made every fourth year, without exception, a leap year. This, however, was an over correction; for it supposed the length of the tropical year to be 6554 days, which is too great, and induces an error of 7 days in 900 years. Accordingly, as early as the year 1414, it was perceived that the equinoxes were gradually moving from the 21st of March and September, where they ought always to have fallen, had the Julian year been exact. A new reform of the calendar was thus required; and it took place under the proposed of Gregory XIII, by the omission of 10 nominal laws after the 44 of Orbeen exact. A new reform of the chieffact was thus required and it took place under the popedom of Gregory XIII. by the omission of 10 nominal lays after the 4th of October, 1582, so that the next day was called the 15th, and no the 5th. This change was immediately adopted in all Roman Catholic countries, but tardily in the countries of Protestantism.

In England, THE CHANGE OF STYLE, as it was called, took place after the 2d day of September, 1752, eleven nominal days being then struck out; so that the last day of Old Style being the 2d, the first of New Style, (the next day,) was called the 14th, instead of the 3d. The same legislative enactment which established the Gregorian control of the 18th o instead of the 3d. The same legislative enactment which established the dregorian year in England in 1752, shortened the preceding year, 1751, by a full quarter. Previous to that time, the year was held to begin with the 25th of March, and the year 1751 accordingly did so; but that year was not suffered to run out, being supplanted on the 1st of January by the year 1752, which it was enacted should commence on Russia is now the only country in Europe in which the old style is still adhered to, and the difference between the European and Russian dates amounts, at present, to about two weeks.

HISTORY

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT,

FOR

FIFTY YEARS:

FROM

MARCH 1789, TO MARCH, 1839.

By ALDEN BRADFORD, LL. D.

Editor of Massachusetts State Papers: Author of History of Massachusetts; of Remarks on State Rights, &c. &c.

"The unity of government, which constitutes you one people, is now dear to you. It is justly so: for it is a main pillar in the edifice of your real independence, the support of your tranquillity at home, of your peace abroads of your safety; of your prosperity; of that very liberty which you so highly value.—Washington's Address.

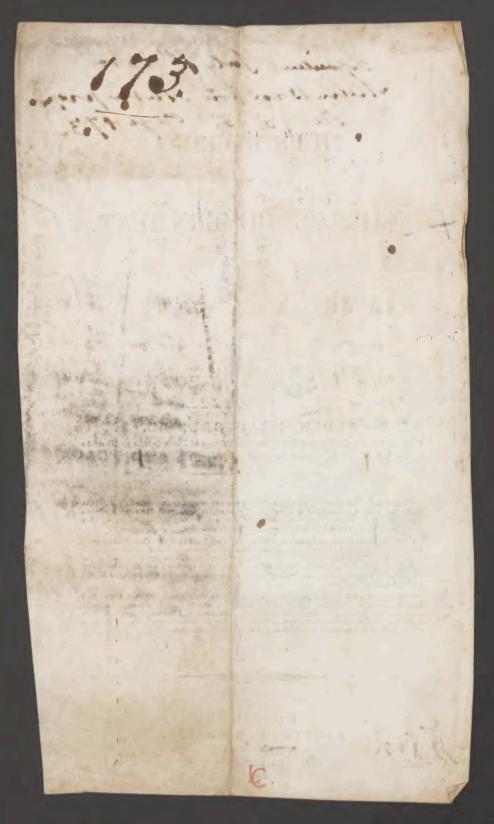

4. The State governments are an essential part of the federal system. Consolidation is an effect which all good men would deprecate. Too much provision cannot be made against consolidation. It would subvert the new Constitution. The State governments are the safeguards of the federal Constitution: they will protract the period of our livities. They will afford a shelter against the abuse of power; and will be the natural avengers of our violated rights."—Ames.

"Hy enlarging the basis of our system, and increasing the number of States, the system itself has been strengthened. Consolidation and disanion have thereby been rendered equally impracticable. Each government, confiding in its own strength, has less to apprehend from the other; and, in consequence, each enjoying a greater freedom of action, is rendered more efficient for all the purposes for which it was instituted."—Monros.

PREFACE.

The author has compiled this little work, principally for his own use. He believes, that by diligent study, upon this plan, with a moderate share of aid from a competent teacher, a pupil will learn more of the English Language, in one month, than he could have obtained, upon the old plan, in a year. Besides, this usually protracted and irksome study, is here rendered short and pleasant. Instead of compelling the learner to burden his memory with a mass of matter, rendered unintelligible, by not knowing the use to which it is to be applied, he is enabled to make the application as he proceeds, and see the use and propriety of each definition and rule at every step of his progress. Though brief, the author is fully satisfied, that this work is amply sufficient to convey a better knowledge of the English Language, than one in a thousand has obtained by the former method of study.
